

WILL WAR COME

Hitler's Desires When Germany Is Rearmed Results in Worry Among Europeans.

SITUATION STUDIED

Now Want Peace and Has Promised It, Leaders Declare.

EDITOR'S NOTE—

Adolf Hitler, more than any other man, holds the key to European peace. H. R. Knickerbocker declares in this article of his series, "Will War Come?" What his attitude will be when Germany is sufficiently rearmed to make victory probable is the question not even Hitler himself can answer at the moment, Knickerbocker writes.

BERLIN, March 23.—Germany is morally re-armed. Pacifism is the No. 1 crime.

Nine million German males from 15 to 30 are too young to have been in the last war. They are the majority of all ages from 15 to 50. They, the youth of Germany, want to live and die as heroes, not as common men.

They believe, and the entire German nation is taught today, that the Germans are a race of lords destined to rule.

These are the moral factors that point to German willingness for war.

But Germany also is rearming especially in the air and eventually may recover the military superiority she had on the continent in 1914. Germany too, has driven a wedge between France and Poland and has successfully prevented a "preventive war."

These are the instruments of German willingness for war.

REPLACE FRENCH

Finally Germany wants to unite in the third Reich the eighty to eighty-five million Germans in Europe of whom fifteen to twenty million live outside present day Germany. She wants to recover everything she lost in the last war. She wants to win, in addition, sufficient territory to provide the space she considers necessary for her prosperity. In the end the Germans hope to replace the French as masters of the continent.

These are the German aims. Most of them are incapable of realization without war. These moral factors, these instruments and these aims of Germany point to eventual war.

All this is not decisive for the question, "Will war come in Europe?" The most serious consideration must be paid to factors which speak against German willingness, preparedness and aims for war.

Germany is not yet prepared for war. The vast majority of neutral, as well as anti-German technical, military opinion in Europe believes that Germany cannot again become as strong absolutely as she was in 1914 in less than three years, even if she had a completely free hand to rearm. She may never become so strong again relative to her potential enemies because while Germany rearms others, according to every indication today, will arm upward with equal if not greater speed.

These are the instruments against Germany's willingness for war.

But not less important at the moment is the fact that Adolf Hitler himself does not want war. This is reported not because he has said it so often but because he has made his own people believe it and because according to the best qualified observers who ought to know he has made himself believe it.

DON'T WANT WAR

He declares and believes that he does not want war not only today when Germany is unable to hope for victory but also tomorrow when she may think she could be victorious. Among thirty of Europe's leading statesmen, kings, dictators, foreign ministers, war ministers and chiefs of general staffs interviewed during the course of this investigation not one failed to declare that Hitler is sincere in declaring he does not want war now or in the near future. Almost every one of them, however, qualified that not even Hitler himself in his own heart is able to say today what his attitude toward war will be when Germany is sufficiently rearmed to make victory probable.

When that time comes Hitler will probably be, as he certainly is now, the one man in Europe who will be decisive for the question, "Will War Come?" He is today more nearly omnipotent in Germany than ever. His power, based on Germany's mystical concept of him as a prophet of the German blood brotherhood, is almost absolute. He controls the thoughts and feelings of his countrymen to a degree most difficult for a non-German to understand. He can do with Germany as he likes.

He is the first German chancellor since the war with sufficient

CLARK VICIOUS AS STATE ENDS ITS TESTIMONY

Man Charged With Assisting Pierpont, Makley to Soon Know Fate

SHOUSE ON STAND

Hope to Complete all Testimony Friday

LIMA, March 23.—The state rested its case today in the first degree murder trial of Russell Clark, Dillinger gangster, after Mrs. Lucy Sarber, widow of Allen-co's slain sheriff, told for the third time in three weeks how her husband was killed by the desperadoes who invaded the jail last Oct. 12 and freed John Dillinger.

While Mrs. Sarber's testimony was substantially the same as that she gave in the trial of Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, both of whom were convicted of the crime, she was unable to identify Clark as she had Pierpont and Makley.

TRIAL SPEEDED

Following the conclusion of the state's case, Judge E. E. Everett, who is presiding at the trial, announced that he may call a night session of court in an effort to speed Clark's case to the jury. The defense case was expected to be brief and it was believed possible that the jury may get the case either late tonight or early tomorrow.

Clark's hitherto sullen mood has changed into one of viciousness. When the state introduced what it claimed was tantamount to a confession by Clark to the crime, the reputed Dillinger machine gunner kicked savagely at a waste paper basket at the counsel table. It upset and caused a clatter to ring through the crowded courtroom.

He glared at two deputy sheriffs, Don Miller and V. G. Clark as they took the witness stand to relate a conversation they said took place between Clark, Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley. The latter two already have been convicted of murder in connection with the Sarber slaying and are awaiting sentence to the electric chair.

The testimony of the two deputies climaxed an exciting day during which Mrs. Lena Pierpont, 52-year-old mother of Harry Pierpont, was summoned to the witness stand by the state. She denied that Clark accompanied her son to the Pierpont farm home at Leipsic on the day of the crime. Prosecutor Ernest M. Botkin introduced a statement that the woman had made in police court a few days after the murder in which Mrs. Pierpont was said to have identified Clark as a member of the raiding party that freed Dillinger from the Allen-co jail. He sought to question her at length regarding alleged discrepancies in the story, but Judge E. E. Everett held that the state could not impeach the testimony of one of its own witnesses.

SHOUSE THERE, TOO

The testimony of Mrs. Pierpont created as much sensation as that of Edward Shouse, a member of the gang, earlier in the day who had turned state's evidence. Shouse, a convict in the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, definitely linked Clark with the jail delivery plot and charged that the man on trial was one of the trio who actually entered the jail and shot and clubbed Sheriff Sarber to death.

Dunlap For Congress?

Col. Groce Rings Bell at Republican Meeting With Former Assistant Agriculture Chief Neither Affirming Nor Denying Statement.

Maybe a new candidate is preparing to enter the field for Congress.

At the Republican "precession" dinner in Columbus last week, Col. C. E. Groce, at a table occupied by Pickaway-co following of the G. O. P., as a matter of pleasantry, introduced Renick W. Dunlap as "The next congressman from the Eleventh Ohio district."

He said: "Mr. Dunlap is a Pickaway-co farmer and has been identified with farm organizations for many years. He was a member of the Ohio senate from this district, was state dairy and food commissioner, was secretary of the Ohio State board of agriculture, and for four years was assistant secretary of agriculture during the administration of President Hoover. He would make an ideal candidate and I think he could be elected. So why not have a Congressman from Pickaway-co, one of the best counties in the state."

Mr. Dunlap, hearing Col. Groce's introduction, made neither denial nor affirmation of the statement.

City's Teachers Hear Kershner

70 Enjoy Excellent Meeting at American Hotel; Values of Retirement System Told by Speaker; Collection of Delinquent Taxes Should Greatly Aid Finances of Counties, It Is Brought Out.

A very enjoyable meeting of teachers of Circleville schools, members of the Board of Education and guests was held at the New American Hotel Coffee Shop Thursday evening. Over 70 attended the meeting.

The teachers and guests heard an interesting talk by W. E. Kershner, Columbus, secretary of the Teachers' Retirement system, who told of the operation of the fund and gave other information.

"The teachers' retirement fund is a joint arrangement between the state of Ohio and the teachers," he said, "and the money paid into the fund by the teachers belongs to them. If they resign from the teaching job the money they have paid into the fund is refunded to them."

"With a fund of $28,000,000 with which to operate the Association has money enough to care for all its requirements of pensions paid, deaths, and refunds to teachers. This money is invested only in Ohio bonds so that it is secured and also helps to carry on the educational program of the state," he continued.

SCHOOLS LAUDED

Commenting on the school system he said that "The public schools are the backbone of good government. We can't let down in the system for if we did our government would retard and it would take years to recoup the losses."

"The children of the United States are the last things we should economize on," he asserted, "for without schools we would have seventy-five per cent illiteracy. With the schools we can combat communism and we should not consider the schools as an expense but the backbone of Democracy." (Continued on Page Six)

2 MORE PAY FINES UNDER TRAFFIC LAW

Two more dollars had been added to the city treasury, Friday, after Dwight "Pinky" Wilson, S. Washington-st., and Emmett Greenlee, 123 N. Scioto-st., were called into Mayor W. B. Cady's court, Thursday evening, for operating their automobiles with only one headlight.

ESHELMAN CO. FILES PROTEST

Firm Cites Application of Proportional Rates to Water Rates Unfair.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23.—A strong plea in behalf of the proposal of rail carriers serving the midwest to restrict the application of proportional rates on grain and grain products from Illinois and Kentucky points to southern territory was registered today by John W. Eshelman and Sons, of Circleville, in a brief filed with the interstate commerce commission.

Declaring that in its business as a manufacturer of animal and poultry feed, it gets its raw materials from the west and north, shipping them to the east and southwest, the Circleville firm told the ICC that application of the proportional rates to water rates is unfair.

The proportional rates were originally intended only to apply where other factors were equal, and the balancing all-rail rate had been paid, the Circleville firm insisted.

Two-fold application of the lowest rates, including the lowest water rate and the lowest rail rate, is giving advantage to coast mills, and forcing the interior grain mills out of existence, the Eshelman brief claimed.

The brief was prepared by C. H. Hillyer, attorney, and John D. Mummert, traffic manager, for the Eshelman company.

ELLIOTT AND HILL DENY INDICTMENTS

Orville Elliott and Charles Hill, this city, were held for trial under $200 bond each when they pleaded not guilty to petit larceny of property belonging to the Container Corporation of America. The hearing was before Judge J. W. Adkins.

Tom A. Renick represented Elliott and Hill.

Judge Adkins has not yet set the trial date.

Elliott, whose case was investigated by a previous grand jury, has sued the Container Corporation for malicious prosecution in connection with the alleged theft. Because the sum of $25,000 and a foreign corporation concerned the action has been transferred from common pleas to federal court.

INCOME TAXES TO BE VOTED? UTILITIES PAY

House to act on Proposal to Net 18 Millions; Cornstalks' Help

BOOST EXCISE TAX

10-Mill Limitation to be Overcome by Action

COLUMBUS, March 23.—Receiving hope that a permanent tax program may yet be adopted before adjournment of the legislature, the House of Representatives today plunged into consideration of the fundamental tax bills.

First on the house calendar was the income tax proposal, calculated to yield approximately $18,000,000 annually, all of it going toward maintenance of the public schools, which would receive equal aid from the state.

Endorsed unanimously at a meeting of the "farm bloc" headed by Rep. Corwin H. Swan (D) Apple Creek, and representing at present about 25 members of the house, the bill was offered as a substitute for the administration's 3 per cent retail sales tax.

FORCE SALES TAX

Should the income tax measure go down to defeat it was conceded even by its severest critics that the sales tax would then have to be accepted to lift the state out of its financial morass. However, Rep. P. E. Ward (R) Chardon, author of the bill and the entire farm bloc were confident of victory for the income tax proposal.

Thus far the sales tax measure has not even been reported out of committee, income tax advocates having sufficient strength there to prevent action on it until the fate of their own substitute program is determined.

Once the income tax measure is out of the way the House expected to take up consideration of the Sunbelt-Roberts school financing bill, already passed by the senate with amendments raising the annual amount of state aid from the original $42,000,000 to about $48,000,000.

Credit for approving the first bill on any permanent tax program went to the lower house when it voted $6 to 9 on the bill of Rep. B. J. McCluskey (D) Cleveland, increasing excise taxes of utilities companies so as to return to the state about $4,000,000 of the $6,000,000 they will save when the 10-mill real estate tax limitation becomes effective next year.

Bitter debates over Sen. E. N. Walcott's proposal to extend the state aid to parochial schools for one year preceded enactment of the bill in the senate. The Cincinnati amendment finally was voted down, 13 to 12. The vote on passage of the bill minus the parochial amendment was 22 to 4.

Senators voting for the parochial schools amendment were: Emons (R) Akron; Gingsher (R) Columbus; Gunst (D) Van Wert; Hayes (D) West Lafayette; LeFevre (R) Glouster; Lewis (R) St. Clairsville; Lowery (R) New Concord; Matthews (D) Enon; Pfeiffer (R) Columbus; Ruff (R) Canton; Sheppard (R) Akron; Whittemore (R) Akron, and Wolfe (R) Mansfield.

ALL TOWNSHIPS NOW ORGANIZED IN CORN-HOG PLAN

Committees for Pickaway-co's various townships in the coming program have been completed with three organized Thursday. A county organization is now expected to be perfected.

The townships organized, Thursday, include:

Wayne; Ward Peck, W. A. Downing, and Asa Barthelmas. Harrison; Paul J. Hay, J. L. Spindler, and Jesse L. Baum. Walnut; W. E. Brinker, Paul Cronley, and Frank Hinson.

TO RETURN HOME

Thomas Heffner, of Washington-twtp, who has been a patient in White Cross hospital, Columbus, is reported improving. He is expected to be returned to his home Saturday.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Mr. C. A. Weldon, W. Union-st., who is ill at Berger hospital, was reported some better Friday.

Crosby Stays Home As Threat is Heard

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—Bing Crosby, radio and screen star, today cancelled plans for a sailing vacation, because of reports that threats had been overheard to kidnap his 9-month-old son.

"These threats were made and I think it best to stay right home to see that the matter goes no further," Crosby said.

I have taken every precaution to protect my family because I want the world to know that Hollywood no longer is taking gangster intimidations sitting down."

COUNTY DADS TO HELP AGED

Commissioners Accept Task in Co-operation With Old Age Pension Program.

The commissioners of Pickaway-co, John W. Hay, Burr H. Rader, and Ralph May, will act as a board of aid for the aged under the old age pension law, it was announced by Auditor Cliff M. White, Friday.

The action was taken after a request was received from John W. McSweeney, state welfare director, that the commissioners act in that capacity.

No applications for pensions will be made direct to the state department. As soon as the county organizations have been completed over the state necessary application blanks and bulletins of instruction will be issued from the welfare department of the county boards and publicity will be given on time, place, and manner for filing.

Mr. McSweeney's letter to the commissioners in which he asked their cooperation did not make acceptance mandatory but urged that the county dads accept the assignment. Had they not been inclined to serve as a Board of Aid for the Aged it would have been necessary to appoint an independent board.

M. L. Brown, prominent worker in the Fraternal Order of Eagles, sponsor of the Old Age Pension program in Ohio is director of the division of aid for the aged, a part of the state welfare department.

Copies of the new law have been sent to the commissioners.

DOUDS DIVORCE

Charging gross neglect of duty and that his wife left him on March 10 and has refused to return, George Douds, Folsom-ave, sued for divorce in common pleas court, Friday, from Fannie Douds, whom he married in Greenup, Ky., Jan. 19, 1929.

The petition, prepared by R. L. Criswell, charges Mrs. Douds has transferred her affections to another man whose name is known to the plaintiff.

Besides divorce, the plaintiff asks a restraining order to bar Mrs. Douds from entering their home to remove any property. They have no children.

GAS FIGHT BANK IN SUPREME COURT

COLUMBUS, March 23.—The Columbus Gas and Fuel Company case was back in the state supreme court today on a request of the company counsel for clarification of the court's ruling that a 48-cent gas for this city is not confiscatory.

The U. S. Supreme court last week dismissed the gas company's appeal for want of jurisdiction, so in an attempt to get the case once more before the U. S. court they sought an interpretation from the state supreme court that its previous order, in effect reducing the rate from 55 cents to 48 cents, was final.

Hearing on the latest motion was set down for next Thursday.

Inter-City Kiwanis Meeting is Monday

The local Kiwanis club is making plans for a huge meeting Monday evening when the Northwest Columbus club makes its hejira to this city in the district's system of inter-city meetings.

The meeting will be held at Hanley's tearoom beginning at 6:30 p. m.

The Columbus club will deliver the Fellowship chest to this city with the local club to take it to Portsmouth on Wednesday, April 4.

Jules Brazil, celebrated radio entertainer, will provide the entire program here.

A 100 per cent attendance is expected at the Monday meeting.

BRICKER TO RUN

COLUMBUS, March 23.—Although withholding any announcement of candidacy, attorney General John W. Bricker today had obtained nominating papers from the secretary of state. It was believed here that he will seek reelection.

PRESIDENT AWAITING DECISIONS

Suggestions for Peace in Labor-Motor Fight Made by Roosevelt

ACTION EXPECTED

Johnson Acts Errand Boy in Controversy

WASHINGTON, March 23.—President Roosevelt virtually cast aside routine engagements today, awaiting word from either faction in the automobile labor dispute that it will accept his suggestions for peace.

White House doors are wide open whenever either the manufacturers or labor officials want to see the president.

There were no new developments in the labor negotiations over night. Both sides today were busy in conferences, however. Action of some sort was expected before tonight.

WAITING, WATCHING

Apparently, the President laid a definite proposal for peace before the executives and labor in White House conferences with each group. Until some sort of reply is brought to Mr. Roosevelt, he is simply waiting and watching the situation carefully.

Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson will bring word to the White House whenever either faction is ready to return and present an answer to the president's suggestions. Johnson is acting as liaison man between workers' executives and the White House.

WANT RECOGNITION

The workers want the manufacturers to recognize their elected agents for collective bargaining, regardless of whether those agents are A. F. of L. officials. Headed by Green, they asked the president to compel such recognition, even if it were necessary to invoke his broad powers to license industry under the Industrial Recovery act.

Automobile executives assert they will gladly bargain with workers' elected representatives, but will not recognize A. F. of L. men. There, the situation appeared to stand.

The only concrete accomplishment revealed so far was a further postponement of the threatened general strike of workers in the automobile industry. Mr. Green announced the strike will not be ordered pending conclusion of the negotiations here. At the outset of the Washington conference the strike postponement order was for 48 hours, which would have called 250,000 men out today.

PICKAWAY LIQUOR STORE PERSONNEL REMAINS MYSTERY

Carpenters at Work on Wilkes Building; Yates Only Man Appointed.

Just who the cashier and clerks in the Pickaway-co state liquor store will be remained a mystery today. Appointments have been made in many other counties but Pickaway's employees have not yet been named.

Adrian Yates, E. Main-st., has been appointed supervisor but he is the only person so far to receive an appointment for store duty.

It was reported today that all appointments would be definitely settled this afternoon but at press-time no word had yet been received here.

Work is going forward on the Wilkes building, W. Main-st., where the store will be located. Carpenters have been busy more than a week, and it is expected the store will be burglar-proof after it has been completed.

Only the east half of the large store-room is being used. The store will not be opened for business until after April 15.

ENGLISH HORSE WINS

AINTREE, Eng., March 23.—Golden Miller today won the grand national steeplechase over Aintree's back-breaking and awesomely hazardous, beating a field of 30 starters to take one of the capital prizes of all turfing.

JONES TRAILS IN COMEBACK

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—All through this historic southern river town, where they have hailed out the black-bordered cards of condolence and apall of grief hangs over a stricken populace as from the visitation of a great tragedy, grave faced citizens gathered in clusters today, wagged their heads dolefully and spoke in hushed tones.

If you edge in close and listened attentively you could hear a colonel with spruce Van Dyke and bronzed face, incongruous in checked tweed golf clothes when you expected to see long-tailed coat and black slouch stetson, murmur: "The Emperor is dead. The Emperor is dead," while his brother mourners echoed "Amen, Amen."

STILL HAS CHANCE

Sad to relate there were some who write among them, and it may be it will turn out they are right, but this humble department with charity for the present, faith in the future, and awesome regard for the vagaries of tournament golf asks permission to raise up with a gentle but firm suggestion that all may not be what it seems and that the body may just be asleep.

We'd be the last to deny that there isn't cause for alarm and that a doctor might be needed but it seems to us that we found the heart still beating strong.

A young lawyer of Atlanta, Ga., who is playing golf again after a four-year rest cure shot 76 on the Augusta national golf course yesterday and the lamentations were immediate, long and loud.

We admit that when Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., shoots a 76 on anybody's golf course that it is a thing to wonder at and to marvel that it could happen at all because we, like a lot of others, had gotten to the point where we took perfection for granted and weren't ready to account for bad days.

But the thing that sticks out like a sore toe on a bare foot country boy to us is that today, tomorrow and Sunday are other days, that the battle of Bobby's courageous comeback is but begun, that only 18 holes, after all, have been played and that there are 54 more holes to go.

Bobby has done an amazing and courageous, it may prove foolhardy, thing in subjecting the record of his fourteen years of golf, which he climaxed so brilliantly by winning the British and American open and amateur championships in 1930, to be onslaughts of a battery of campaign-hardened veterans, but even with yesterday's unfortunate debacle it seems too early yet to shout "I told you so, they never come back."

There's no denying that Bobby

is in a tough spot. He is the first to admit it, but he has been under fire before and has pulled through brilliantly and on top.

Forty-four of the field of 72 that went out against Bobby yesterday came home either ahead or even with him.

THREE IN TIE

The end of the day, found Horton Smith, of Chicago, Jimmy Hines, a comparative unknown from New York, and Emmett French, of Southern Pines, tied for the lead position with seventies. True this is two strokes under par but there's nothing unusual about a 70 in a golf tournament, although if you put four of them together you can take home the money.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

THERE hasn't been a sporting event in this country in several years which has attracted as much attention as Bobby Jones' attempt to come back to the heights of golfdom which he abandoned three and one-half years ago. This morning with 36 holes played the Atlanta "grand-slammer" is six strokes behind the leaders. Horton Smith, Emmett French, and Jimmy Hines, all of whom bagged 70s in the first round of play.

Jones has always been admired for his golfing ability, which reached a degree of super-excellence, has never gone to his head. Among golfers he's just another good fellow.

None of the professional, amateur, or mixed tournaments scheduled by central Ohio professionals will be played on the Pickaway Country club course. The matches are passed around to several layouts, but the professionals last year as one of the finest in the state, will go hungry. The greens committee is working on plans which may bring several good attractions here, however.

These Scioto-river girls organized a strong basketball team. In a game this week they defeated the Independent Mills, of Columbus, by a 40-36 score. Helen Williams and E. Durr did most of the scoring for the Commercial Pointers counting 19 and 18, respectively. They have booked the Corpus Christi girls and a Circleville team, the identity of which is not known to us.

Some baseball slang: Base knock, safe hit; base on stones, ground ball that hits a pebble and bounces away from the fielder; Bleeder, scratchy single; Blind Tom, umpire; Blue dart, line drive.

20 BOATS ENTERED FOR 284 MILE RACE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—America's only international sailing race, the annual classic of southern waters will go into its fifth year, March 31, when 20 or more schooners and yawls with flying canvas will line up at the end of Recreation pier for the first of a United States Coast Guard gun at high noon for the long pull over a course of 284 nautical miles for picturesque Morro Castle and Havana, Cuba. Thirteen boats are already entered in the classic and many more are to follow in the ensuing weeks prior to the start of the event.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA "Girl Without a Room," playing today and Saturday at the Cliftona Theatre, is an adaptation of Jack Lait's sensational story of the same name. In the screen play Charles Farrell and Marguerite Churchill furnish the romantic interest, while Charlie Ruggles, Gregory Ratoff, Walter Woolf, and Grace Bradley are in the supporting cast. The picture was directed by Ralph Murphy from a screen script written by Frank Butler and Claude Binyon.

The story is the fast and furious romance between a young boy from the mountains of Tennessee and the most glamorous artists' model in all Paris.

Charles Farrell wins a scholarship in the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montmartre. His success comes so suddenly, he is bewildered by it all, and arrives in the art colony still bewildered.

Sportsmen of County Busy

While activities of the Pickaway-co Farmer's and Sportsman's association are not surrounded by a fan-fare of publicity, the organization, nevertheless, is a busy one and of much advantage to Pickaway-co.

During the past year the following things have been done here: 1,004 pheasants and 315 pheasant eggs have been put out in every township in the county; Scippo and Congo creeks received 25 gallons of small mouthed and large mouthed fingerling black bass;

Deercreek has received 1,350 mature small mouthed and large mouthed black bass;

Darby creek has received 200 mature black bass and 600 fingerlings, 250 crappies, and 75 rock bass all mature;

Walnut creek has received 1,800 large and small mouthed bass fingerlings;

Besides these additions to the county streams, 4,000 or more game fish have been rescued from the river and creek bottoms where they had been left by flood waters. They were returned to the creeks.

In the last few weeks 120 Missouri rabbits and 12 raccoons were liberated in the county.

The association's annual fish fry and banquet will be held in the Elks home April 6.

KINGSTON

DEATH OF INFANT

Dorothy Pennington, youngest daughter of Oscar Pennington died at her home on John Wilson farm in Pickaway-co, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock of pneumonia at the age of 2 years and 9 months.

The remains were taken to Kentucky for burial on Thursday. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of H. B. Shannon.

NE PLUS ULTRA MEETING The Ne Plus Ultra Sunday school class of the M. E. church met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Mary Ford.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett, vice-president presided in the absence of the president, Miss Katherine Brundage. The meeting was opened at 7:30 o'clock by all singing "In the Garden." Devotionals were in charge of Miss Ada Merriam, after singing the song "What A Friend," the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and followed with roll call by the secretary, Mrs. Bessie Sheridan, after the business session the song "Nailed to the Cross," was sung by all and the following program was given with Mrs. Mary Ford as chairman piano solo "Irish Melodies" played by Mrs. N. F. Bond; reading "That Feminine Overhead," by Mrs. H. B. Shannon; two readings "When Ma Wants Something New" and an Italian reading "Giavanni," by Mrs. C. L. Breeden.

Miss Ford was assisted by Mesdames Frances Kreisel, Thelma Routt, Madge Minor, Bessie Strausbaugh, Esther Kreisel, and Maud Bush in serving refreshments consisting of fruit jello with whipped cream, wafers, candy and coffee to the thirty members and visitors present. The visitors were Mrs. H. B. Shannon, Mrs. N. J. Ford, Joyce Kreisel and Evelyn Davis.

The next meeting will be held one week later than the usual date. A full attendance is desired. The time is one-half hour earlier on account of Lenten Service at the M. E. church in the evening.

Miss Ada Merriam was an overnight guest Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Gatten in Columbus.

Clark Buzzard of Hazel Green, W. Va., spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beavers and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Buch of near Circleville were Tuesday evening, supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Search and family. Mrs. Bush attended the Ne Plus Ultra S. S. class meeting in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Search and family recently moved to the Ed May farm just north of Kingston from the Douglas farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Snyder and son, David Lee, of Bucyrus, O., spent from Sunday until Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Betz and family. Mrs. Betz accompanied them home to visit until Sunday.

Mrs. D. H. Dreisbach is on the sick list at this writing.

Miss Elizabeth Unstead had the misfortune to fall Monday morning, and broke a bone in her left ankle. She was taken to the Chillicothe hospital for an X-ray.

Mrs. Herbert Lemley and daughter, Joan, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Dewler in Chillicothe.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

Next Sunday morning, March 25, will be our Young People's Pro-Baster service. The young people are planning to have a prominent part in the service in the way of music. It is expected that our church quartet will sing also at that time. The pastor will preach on the theme, "Why I Believe in the Resurrection of Christ." All are urged to attend. The service begins at ten o'clock.

The Juniors C. E. meets at 6:30 Sunday evening. The Senior C. E. will meet also at 8:30. A large attendance is expected because they will open the question box at that time, and at least a part of the meeting will be given over to answering the questions found therein, and a round table conference over the problems presented by the questions. The Young People expect to serve refreshments at this meeting.

ASHVILLE ITEMS

Miss Gretchen Plum, a student at Ohio University, Athens, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Plum and daughter, Eliza.

The banquet sponsored by the Parnet-Teachers' Association honoring the football boys and the basketball boys and girls of Ashville high school was held at the high school auditorium Friday evening. Rev. Ridenour, of Canal Winchester, a Lutheran pastor there, and a former Capital University athlete, was the principal speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Lettie Hartman and daughter, Florence, of Columbus, visited Saturday with their aunt, Mrs. Keturah Nothstine.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Martin and family spent Saturday with Mr. Martin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Martin of Springfield.

Mrs. Elda Behnke and daughter, Dorothy, of Lodi, Ohio, are spending several days with Mrs. Behnke's father, Rev. Ricketts.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowers and daughter, Marilyn, of Williamsport, spent the week-end with Mr. Bower's mother, Mrs. Clara Bowers and daughters, Helen and Georgia.

Mrs. Earl Bowers entertained Tuesday evening in honor of her son, Elwood's twelfth birthday anniversary. Those who enjoyed the occasion were, Ernest Martin, Ira Martin, William Martin, Maurice Martin, Charles Gray, Les Sherman, Cecil McGlone and Norman Flowers.

The new government school which was organized last week, elected officers Tuesday at the session. It was decided to call it the "Roosevelt College." Donald Nance was chosen president; Robert Flowers as vice-president, and Robert Welsh as secretary-treasurer. Three courses are being pursued, Political Science, Sociology and Psychology under tutorage of Miss Maxey of Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Swoyer and Mrs. John Karsberger, of Columbus, spent Tuesday with Mr. Swoyer's mother, Mrs. Joanna Swoyer.

Mrs. John Swoyer, of Columbus, visited Tuesday with her brother, Simon Runkle.

Among those from Ashville who attended the sessions of The Circleville Herald Cooking School were, Mrs. Cora Warner, Mrs. Emma Salladay, Mrs. Joseph Staley, Mrs. C. A. Higley, Mrs. W. A. Bowers, Mrs. E. F. Martin, Mrs. A. J. Kauber, Mrs. Stanley Beckett, Mrs. Nancy Petty, Mrs. Frank Wharton, Mrs. Flora Bastian, Miss Lillian Boyer, Miss Alice Bowers, Mrs. Minnie Snyder, Miss Cleona Dunnick and Mrs. Clara Forsythe.

CHEVROLET factories are breaking records, trying to give America all the cars it wants. 4000 units a day are rolling off the assembly lines. February output was twice that of January. March output, according to present indications, will be three times that of January. More Chevrolets are now being produced than any other make of automobile in the world. And today, Chevrolet is happy to report that all its dealers will soon be in a position to make immediate deliveries.

When you consider how short a time the new Chevrolet has been in production—when you consider, also, that the 1934 car is not last year's model improved, but a basically new automobile, with sweeping changes in design—this production record becomes somewhat of an accomplishment. But, a still greater accomplishment, in our opinion, is the way that these cars have all been produced!

Despite continued nationwide pressure for more and more volume, every car that has left the factories has been built and tested to meet Chevrolet's highest standards of care, precision and quality. The result: When you place your order for a new Chevrolet, you'll not only get a big, rugged "Knee-Action" car—you're also assured of getting a typical Chevrolet car in economy, dependability and long life.

6,000 SCOUTS TO TAKE PART IN HUGE CIRCUS

Many Phases of Scout Life To Be Shown on April 27, 28, in Columbus.

Commending their work of the past twelve months, some six thousand Scouts will swing into the Coliseum at the State Fair grounds in Columbus on April 27 and 28, to open their annual scout circus. The event will unfold the many phases of Boy Scout work with four or five hundred boys on the floor demonstrating such activities as First Aid, Camping, Pioneering, and Scout Drills.

Meetings are held each week by the one hundred and ninety troops located in the different communities of the counties of Franklin, Delaware, Union, Madison, Fayette, Pickaway, Ross, Hocking, Fairfield and Greenfield in Highland-co. At these meetings the boys are under the direction of their scoutmaster, a man of at least twenty-one years of age who is an American citizen and understands boy interests. Each of these troops, besides the scoutmaster, has a Troop Committee of three to ten members who represent some church, school or the general interests of the community. The Troop Committee assists the scoutmaster and encourages him in his leadership of the boys in their program of training for citizenship and character.

Within the troop, the scouts are divided into patrols which may vary in number, up to eight. Each patrol has its patrol leaders and adopts some name for itself, such as, the George Washington Patrol or the Buffalo Patrol. Boys who are Scouts must all subscribe to the Scout Oath:

On my honor I will do my best: 1. To do my duty to God and my Country, and to obey the Scout Law;

2. To help other people at all times;

3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight.

Scouts are also expected to do at least one "Good Turn" to someone each day, whether they be in Camp, School or at Home. Some times these "Good Turns" mean the saving of human life through the Scout's knowledge of First Aid or Life Saving. More often, however, it is an expression of interest in someone's welfare which may be expressed by picking up broken glass in the road to save someone a punctured tire.

TARLTON

Mrs. Sarah Reichelderfer and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wiggins attended the funeral Saturday of Mrs. Ora Merrill, of Williamsport. A family dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Eva Hodges, south of town, Sunday, in honor of her 70th birthday anniversary. Those helping her celebrate were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Foust, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Foust, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hodges and family, of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hodges and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hodges and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clydus Fausnaugh, Mrs. Kate Anderson and Gilbert Hodges, of Tarlton and Rev. and Mrs. Dennis. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hodges have moved to Lancaster where Mr. Hodges will take charge of a meat shop in partnership with Lewis Dresbach.

After having a sale of some of his household goods Ed. Zehrung will leave for Indiana to make his home with his son.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Reichelderfer were shopping in Circleville, Monday.

Mrs. Margaret Leist spent Saturday with Mrs. Elizabeth Reichelderfer and attended the M. E. Ladies' Aid.

Mrs. Homer Allen has gone to Whiting, Indiana, for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Lauer.

Mrs. Helen Zehrung and Miss Olive Thomas are reported better at this writing.

Mrs. Blanche Shaffer and Mrs. Hazel Hartman and son, Marvin, spent Saturday in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ballard and family spent Saturday in Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Mowery and Mrs. Wayne Luckhart went to Columbus to attend the funeral of Mr. Mowery's uncle, Allen Mowery who died at the home of his son.

Short History of Wheat

Wheat has been cultivated since the earliest ages—it was the main crop in ancient Egypt and Palestine and formed part of the food supply of the prehistoric cave-dwellers. Today, the United States produces and consumes a greater quantity than any other country in the world. Russia, in normal times, stands next in the list of producers.

Mrs. George O. Thurn Gives Fish And Sea Food Dishes For Lent

Healthful At Any Time of the Year, Always Economical, and Especially Welcome During Lenten Period.

Dear Friends in Circleville:

As a rule fish and sea food (the latter are the shell fish, lobsters, etc.) require only a short period of cooking. Too long cooking dries fish, destroys the delicate flavor and makes it less palatable. The connective tissues in fish are very tender, and to cook fish so that the tissues retain the flavored juices means as a rule, a short period of contact with the heat.

At this season of the year fish is not only plentiful in the coast districts but cities inland and even the smaller places manage to have good supplies of fresh or frozen fish, especially at the end of the week. Plan to serve fish on "fish day" unless you live in a sea coast town when every day is "fish day."

Baked Fish

To bake fish the housekeeper does not need to buy a whole fish and stuff it, although there is no more delectable Lenten dinner. Fillets or steaks may be baked. One method is to dip fillets of white fish in one cup sweet milk seasoned with one tablespoon of salt; then dip into finely sifted bread crumbs. Cover all sides with the crumbs, and lay in a baking dish rubbed with butter. Sprinkle with a little melted fat. Place in a hot oven for ten minutes. No water should be added to the dish. The oven should be 500 degrees. Remove carefully to a hot platter, serve garnished with thin slices of lemon. Or pass a tomato or tartare sauce with this.

Split, Baked Fish

Select a three-pound fish for baking; that is, one without the too many small bones. Remove the head, spinal bone and its side bones and any others which are obvious. Wipe with clean damp cloth. Have ready, two cups bread crumbs; one half small onion; one tablespoon minced green pepper; one fourth teaspoon summer savory; three slices bacon; one third teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper.

Mix the crumbs, onion, minced bacon, green pepper and seasonings and spread on the fish which is opened out flat. Place a slice of bacon on this, and fold the fish almost together, holding the sides author of the bill, assured the Senate that if it were made a part of the bill the entire schools program would be killed in the lower house which on two previous occasions have defeated a similar proposal to grant state aid to parochial schools.

As a part of a $3,000,000 program under the public works administration, the house passed a bill by Rep. W. T. Roberts (D) Bridgeport, appropriating $550,000 a year for four years from money paid to the state for the support of inmates in state institutions, for additions and betterments at welfare institutions.

KINGSTON

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. George Gill, of Stoutsville, was most pleasantly surprised Sunday when she came to Kingston to spend the day with her sister Miss Mary L. Harpster.

The day being Mrs. Gill's birthday anniversary a number of her friends gathered at the home of her sister at 12:30 to help her celebrate. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Karshner and daughter, Mary; Mr. and Mrs. Durben Allen and son, Francis; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bressler and son, Billy; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hatcher; Mr. and Mrs. George Gill, Mrs. Howard Dresbach and Harold Keister.

PHILATHEA CLASS TO MEET The Philathea Sunday school class of the M. E. church will meet Thursday afternoon, March 29 at 2 o'clock at the home of Miss Laura Terry. This is the first meeting of the new class year. The assisting hostesses are Mrs. Ed. Hinton and Miss Georgie Jacobs.

Mrs. Egbert Freshour and children spent a few days in the past week with relatives in Marietta.

in place with skewers. Place on a rack in a baking pan, stuffed side up, lay the remaining bacon on top of the fish and bake thirty minutes in a hot oven, 450 degrees, basting frequently with the fat in the pan. Remove skewers and lay on a hot platter. Serve with any good sauce such as tomato or cheese sauce.

Fried Fish Balls

These make a good dish with or without sauce; or made very small they are good as appetizers (serve with toothpick stuck in them for handles when served as appetizers).

Two cups flaked fish, canned or boiled; one and one half cups mashed potatoes; one cup diced salt pork; one egg; one teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper; an additional egg for dipping; five crumbs; deep fat for frying.

Put the fish through the grinder, being careful that all bones, large and small are out of it; add the seasonings, potatoes and one egg beaten. Fry the pork until crisp and brown. Beat the fish mixture with the pork cubes. Season. Shape in balls. Dip in beaten egg, then crumbs, and lower into hot fat. Enough for six servings.

Deviled Fish

Two cups cooked or canned fish, flaked; one cup white sauce; one tablespoon orange juice; one half teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper; one slice onion chopped fine; one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; one cup bread crumbs; two hard cooked eggs chopped.

Add the crumbs, onion and Worcestershire sauce, eggs, seasonings, orange juice and fish to the white sauce. Put into buttered ramekins. Sprinkle with crumbs and brown in the hot oven, 400 degrees. Enough for five servings.

In Tomato Cups

One and one half pounds fish; twelve medium sized ripe tomaatoes; two and one half cups cheese sauce; lemon juice; chopped parsley; one half teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper; sprinkle of cayenne; three tablespoons melted butter.

Cut the fish in strips, removing all bones. Brush top of each piece with butter. Sprinkle with lemon juice and finely minced parsley, then roll. Scoop the centers out of the tomatoes. Season the inside of the tomatoes with salt, pepper and put a roll of fish in each. Place in a baking dish and add a very little water to the bottom of the dish. Bake thirty minutes in a hot oven basting the fish frequently with the liquid in the pan. Serve with hot cheese sauce. Enough for eight.

Cornmeal Oysters

One dozen large oysters; one cup cornmeal; one cup flour; one teaspoon salt; three fourths cup milk; one teaspoon baking powder; two eggs, well beaten; deep fat for frying.

Thoroughly mix the cornmeal, flour, salt, and baking powder. Add the beaten eggs and milk, and mix smoothly. Fold the oysters into the batter. Drop by tablespoons into deep, hot fat. Have one oyster in each fritter. Cook until well done. Drain on thick paper toweling and serve at once. Enough for six servings.

Crabmeat With Mushrooms

One cup crabmeat (all shells and fibres removed); one tablespoon lemon juice; one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; a few grains cayenne pepper; one cup white sauce; three hard cooked eggs, chopped; one cup canned or sautéed fresh mushrooms; one teaspoon minced onion; one eighth teaspoon paprika; two and one half teaspoons salt.

Comet
Uncoated Rice
Cooks light, white and flaky

Combine the crabmeat and mushrooms. Add lemon juice, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt, paprika and cayenne. Add to the crab mixture the hot white sauce and eggs. Cook until thoroughly heated. Serve on toast, or in patty shells. Or fill ramekins which have been rubbed with butter with this mixture, cover with grated cheese and cracker crumbs, and bake twelve minutes in a hot oven, 450 degrees. Serves six.

MEDICAL ADVICE

If you want to . . . relieve constipation gently and safely . . . take the exact dose suited to your need . . . avoid danger of bowel strain —use a liquid laxative

Can constipation be safely relieved? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" declare thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not apt to cure your constipation with salts, pills and tablets, or any habit-forming cathartic. But you can safely relieve this condition just by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

Why Hospitals use a liquid laxative

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit your individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will it irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The unwise use of strong cathartics may often do more harm than good.

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains a doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know what is in it, don't chance it. The contents of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is stated plainly on the label; fresh herbs, pure pepsin, active senna.

Its very taste tells you Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. Drug stores have it, ready for use, in big bottles.

THE TEST:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics!

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used.

Family Reunions

TIME was when a family reunion was a matter of long preparation and much planning. Nowadays the member charged with the secretarial duty sends out the postcards, the women of the households get busy with the picnic dinner, and on the morning of the appointed day the various scattered families hitch up, their old flivver and hot to it. The Family Reunion is more popular than the Sunday School picnic.

Pride in a family name is usually back of these gatherings of the clans. As our American civilization takes on age, men think more of their forefathers and the part they played in the building of the great structure we call America.

Sometimes the descendants and relatives by marriage go back to the ancestral home, assembling at the call of the secretary for a day of jollification each summer in the open. College professors and farmers pitch quills as partners. The woman of fashion sits down to talk over family affairs with her cousin the seamstress. There is such a mingling of personalities and social ranks as makes for good democracy, and those who participate are the better Americans for their annual reunions whose walks in life are usually so far removed they never meet except on these occasions.

Final proof of returning prosperity will be a higher price for having a guy bumped off.

Headlights

HEADLIGHT blindness is one of the most dangerous hazards of night motoring, a hazard not only to the occupants of automobiles and to property, but to the pedestrian. In fact, walking at night along state roads or even the more remote thoroughfares is a matter of taking one's life in one's hands and might well be termed "The Suicide Club."

To the conscientious driver of an automobile glaring headlights are a source of torment. He sees two moons approaching him down the road. On they come growing into two shafts of light and finally lose their individual identities as they bear down upon the tense driver. For a moment he thinks there is nothing visible before him but a fog of light. That interval of light blindness is enough, however, to leave death and destruction in its path.

Few drivers in these times are so careful that they will bring their cars to a stop at the approach of the glaring headlights. It is not to be wondered at that there are so few, for a pilot cautious enough to stop for the passage of blinding lights would soon find that he had better stayed at home so far as progress on his journey was concerned.

Despite crusades against the glaring headlight the menace continues.

STOUTSVILLE

"KNAVE'S GIRL"

By JOAN CLAYTON
COPYRIGHT 1932, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

"Funny! It's priceless. Blair doesn't dream it but the old fool practically dropped a million dollars into my lap today. A battle of ballyhoo!" Haverholt exclaimed. His eyes were bright and shining. His face was flushed with color. He struck his hands together. "The bridge battle of the century, Patricia, and you and I the center of it all! This thing will make us. We'll be publicized from coast to coast. Columns of free publicity, movies, magazines, radio, everything. We've got the stuff this time. The gentlemen on one side, the roughnecks on the other—it's magnificent copy. We will sit down to begin that tournament with all America watching."

In his mind he heard the grinding of movie cameras, the clack of telegraph instruments, the blare of radio. He saw the sales of his books leap skyward. He saw himself as a national figure, he saw himself triumphant, acclaimed as the greatest bridge player in the world. He had forgotten the girl. He started as she said quietly:

"Of course if the match goes through it will ruin me."

"What nonsense," he said crossly, irritated at being distracted from this splendid dream.

"It isn't nonsense. You must see that it's not." Her face was as pale as his own. She said, "If you persist in going through with this, how long do you believe I can continue to pose as Patricia Haverholt? How long do you believe it will take Reuben Blair or someone else to learn that I'm not your niece?"

There was a silence in the room. Patricia swallowed with a dry throat. She watched him with frightened eyes.

"Dozens of people know me," she said dully, "know that I'm not Patricia Haverholt. They'd see by my pictures, they'd—" She buried her face in her hands. "Oh, what a fool I was," she whispered.

"I thought of all that, he conceded stiffly reluctantly, angry at this turn in the conversation. "I admit it makes things awkward, awkward but not fatal. Even if it discovered the heavens won't fall. Bridge players aren't saints; no one expects them to be or really cares. There may be a scandal. What of it? I've lived through scandal before."

"No doubt you have," said the girl bitterly, perceiving that he would never see her side of it, that he was incapable of seeing any side except his own. She said, "Men usually live through scandal. It's the girls who don't."

Haverholt got up, kicking his chair aside.

"I've promised to stick by you," he announced coldly. "I'll swear till I'm black in the face that you are my niece. What more do you expect of me? Do you expect me to give up the chance of a lifetime simply because someone might say that your name is Patricia Warren? If you expect it, you're out of luck."

"I expect nothing from you," said Patricia. "Nothing at all."

They faced each other with actual hatred. Haverholt stalked toward the door. On sudden impulse he turned, came back to the girl, dropped to the arm of her chair.

"I'm sorry, Patricia," he said, "really I'm sorry. I know you're in a tough spot or think that you are."

Clark's lips brushed her cheek. Only for a moment, and then she pulled away.

"Go away," said the girl distinctly. "Please go away. Run your bridge match as you choose but you can count me out."

"So you think it's all my fault, Patricia?"

"No," she confessed thickly, wretchedly. "It's mostly mine."

"I've been good to you, haven't I?"

"In your way."

"You knew my way; you knew that I was selfish and egotistical, and didn't give a darn for what people thought. You knew I wouldn't change, that you couldn't change me, didn't you?"

"I suppose so."

"Do you think you would be playing fair to walk out on me now?" he asked her calmly. "Do you think it would be fair for you to refuse to play in the match?"

"I guess not," she replied unhappily. She managed the shadow of a smile. "I can hope, though, can't I, that your plan will fall through?"

"You can hope whatever you want," he agreed in sudden relief. Someone knocked on the door, opened it at Haverholt's response.

It was Clark. He looked at the two of them rather oddly and said: "A gang of newspaper men have just arrived from New York. They want to interview you and Patricia. Oh yes," he added, "they want to take pictures of you both."

"I'll go," said Haverholt quickly. "I'll take care of the newspaper men. You stay here, Patricia."

"They want Patricia too," said Clark.

"They'll have to do without her," Haverholt announced, disappearing through the door. "Even newspaper men can't have everything they want."

He was gone. Clark and the girl were left alone, the girl whose pale, strained face betrayed her utterly. For a moment there was silence.

Then, Clark crossed the room and said quietly:

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing," she replied composedly. "I'm tired, that's all. I think I had better go upstairs."

She rose. He blocked her path. "No," he said sharply, breathlessly. "You must tell me what's wrong. What has Julian been saying to you?"

There was something savage in his tone. She had never seen him look like this before. She had never felt so drawn to him, had never felt so strongly the need of his strength and championship. A dizzying weakness, a desire to tell him everything, a longing to put her fate into his hands, almost overcame her. She wavered.

"What's wrong, Patricia?"

"I'm afraid," she said in quick withdrawal, for he had given her a chance to think, to see the impossibility of what she had been about to do. "I'm afraid you haven't the right to ask."

His face turned a slow, dull red. "Sorry," he said stiffly. "I—really I didn't mean to pry. I only thought—"

"You weren't prying," she declared passionately and began to cry.

Instantly, she was in his arms. She felt his lean, hard cheek pressed against her tear-wet cheek, felt his crisp blond hair beneath her hands, felt the beat of his heart against her heart. She was drowning in sweet and perilous waters. Clark's lips brushed her cheek. Only for a moment, and then she had pulled away. The man's arms dropped. He let her go.

They faced each other from a distance of several feet. Neither spoke. Patricia was breathing with a quickened breath. Clark saw the stir of delicate lace at her breast, saw her high, proud color.

Assure the Baby Good Health in Adult Life

Proper Feeding in Infancy Will Lay the Foundation for Future Well-Being

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

INFANT FEEDING has been greatly simplified within the past decade. Yet even today many young mothers confess they are bewildered and uncertain when planning the baby's menu. They are at a loss as to when to wean the baby, when certain foods should be included in the diet, and how often a baby should be fed.

Let me say to every new mother that proper eating habits for the young infant are at the foundation of its future health and happiness. When good eating habits are established early in life, the mother saves herself much unnecessary worry and grief. By good habits, I mean regular feedings at regular intervals. When properly trained the baby will learn to wake at feeding time and to sleep between times.

Contrary to a popular notion, over 95 per cent of all mothers can nurse their babies. Every baby should be breast fed whenever possible. There is no satisfactory substitute for mother's milk.

Regular Feeding Schedule

The baby should be nursed every four hours during the course of the day. The child is expected to gain an average of five ounces a week for the first few months. Failing to do this, the feedings should be given every three hours instead of every four hours.

If the baby fails to gain weight and is not making the necessary progress, the fault may be due to lack of mother's milk or that the milk is not rich enough. In either case it is imperative that the baby be weaned and a milk formula substituted. Your own doctor will advise you just how to prepare the formula required by your baby.

Dr. Copeland

I am often asked, "When can the baby be given orange juice?" A teaspoon of orange juice may be given the infant when it is one month old. The amount is gradually increased until at three months, a tablespoon is given twice a day. Tomato juice or prune juice may be substituted for the orange juice.

As I view it, it is wise to give every infant cod liver oil or a substitute. Ask your doctor to tell you just how to give this to your baby.

Another problem which often confronts the young mother is when to give cereals. Cereal may be given at six months. Farina, cream of wheat, or strained oatmeal, should be given first. Later, other cereals may be added. Rice, barley gruel and strained vegetables make excellent additions to the diet.

Never force the baby to eat. Encourage it to eat its food by serving it at regular intervals. I cannot repeat too often that proper eating habits are the short cut to health and happiness.

Answers to Health Queries

Mother. Q.—I am a young woman of 27 and have a little boy five years of age. I have had asthma practically all my life and now my child seems to have a tendency in this direction. What can I do to clear it up before it becomes chronic in his case?

A.—Asthma may be due to a number of causes. Various tests will be helpful in locating a possible cause. This in turn will determine the necessary treatment. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

D. S. Q.—What would cause an empty, nauseous feeling in the stomach shortly after eating? I have been working hard and seem to be nervous and tired most of the time. Would this have any connection?

A.—Nervousness always affects the digestion. Eat simple foods and make sure that you are getting sufficient rest and relaxation. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. (Copyright, 1934, K. F. S., Inc.)

YOU'RE LICKED

If you are sure that life's a cheat
And that the cards are stacked to beat
You in the crooked game;
If in your weakness you believe
The goal of life is to deceive
And heap upon you shame;
If you are prone to ever think
That life will lead you to the brink
Of precipice so high—
Then push you off with mercy none
And chuckle at the deed it's done,
There's little use to try.

If you believe the race is won
By those who have not duty done
Or any effort made;
If you are sure it's all been fixed
And sham and fake together mixed
Before the jockeys weighed;
If you are firm in your belief
That life the race you'll come to grief,
From luck so far apart;
One thing is sure and you'll agree,
That you may not the reason see,—
You're licked before you start.

authority to make all the concessions necessary to ensure peace as long as he wants it. What other German statesmen could have made the non-aggression pact with Poland giving up the corridor for ten years? Bruening, had he done it, would have been crucified. Hitler controlled his storm troops in Danzig. He can control them in the Saar and in Austria if he will.

MORAL FACTOR
This is the moral factor that controls Germany's willingness for war and for the moment speaks against it.

Finally, though Germany aims at a great many goals that could only be achieved by war they could be achieved, of course, only by a victor's peace. And in contemplating war Germany, too, must contemplate what might be the result of a lost war.

A lost war, Germany as a whole is convinced, would mean first of all the end of modern Germany as a United State. No pacifist propaganda could be more effective than the maps just published by national socialists pointing out "what the enemies of Germany want."

France, according to this forecast, would take the entire left-bank of the Rhine; Poland would get a great slice of north Germany including most of her Baltic seacoast; Czechoslovakia would get most of Saxony, and the rest of Germany would be divided into independent German states, a tiny Prussia around Berlin, and states of Hanover, Saxony, Westphalia, Wurttemberg, and Rhineland.

But a lost war would mean the inevitable end of national socialism. Germany would have tried within one generation, the Hohenzollerns, the Republic, and the Nazis. After all these had failed, only Communism would remain. The next war, lost by Germany, would mean reduction to a condition only a little better perhaps than her condition after the thirty years war.

These are the counter-balancing considerations to Germany's national aims. They speak against war at least until Germany is absolutely confident of winning.

HOW MANY YEARS
How soon could Germany be confident of winning? This is the one all-important factor in the question "will war come?" Without a dissenting voice every military authority consulted in the course of this investigation has declared that to organize, train and equip an army comparable to Germany's army of 4,000,000 in 1914 she would require at least three years starting from today, and that it would cost her around forty billion dollars. And she could only do that if she could work without fear or restriction. Considering the fact that she still suffers from fears, though from fewer and fewer restrictions, it is the opinion of the majority of these experts that five to ten years would be necessary. These opinions gain weight by the fact that ninety percent of them are from anti-German sources.

To specify, as one expert put it: "Germany could put in the field tomorrow a superb force of 100,000 men, the Reichswehr; in three months from Reichswehr reserved police and storm troops, she could have another 200,000, making 300,000. In a year, with a free hand she could have 500,000 to 600,000; in 18 months 750,000; in two years a million first-class soldiers. But even German ingenuity and efficiency could not go higher than that."

Nobody of authority believes the German land army equipment in heavy guns, tanks, machineguns as yet anything like enough to supply such forces. But as the modern formula now has it, "the decision lies in the air." Here the observations of experts are incredibly divergent but there is enough positive material to make German air armaments the chief cause of European anxiety today.

A French military aviation journal declares Germany has 42,000 pilots of whom most are militarily qualified. A neutral military expert who has spent years observing Germany told me on the other hand he did not believe Germany had twelve militarily qualified pilots. A French major of aviation put the figure at 200.

A French general of great authority told me he considered the German bombing air fleet already superior to the French. Captain Gust in the British House of Commons declared Germany had 1,099 civil airplanes capable of being turned to military service. In this city it has become known that the German government has just purchased from an American firm for $75,000 apiece three large passenger airplanes obviously capable of transformation into bombers.

General Hermann Goering, air minister of Germany, has publicly avowed the minimum demand for thirty to forty percent as many military airplanes as those possessed by France, Belgium, Poland and Czechoslovakia, the countries bordering on Germany. The official Nazi "Voelkischer Beobachter" reckons French planes 4,546, Belgian 500, Polish 1,000, and Czech 700, a total of around 7,000, "with around 3,000 reserve planes in the background." On this reckoning the German demands would be for at least 2,100 to 2,800 military airplanes. On more conservative reckoning Goering is said to have asked for 1,200 planes.

This is the principal reason why Europe is pessimistic. If Germany's official air fleet numbered from 1,200 to 2,800, how many would the others build? Soon the skies of Europe may be dark with warplanes. In the balance of forces for and against war, the weightiest arguments speak for peace during three, five, ten or perhaps more years. But the armament race has already begun. No armaments

cracy. What the people are mostly interested in," he continued, "is not the cost of the school system but getting value received for every dollar spent. I know of no profession that tries harder to render service than school teachers.

"We can reduce taxes easily," he stated, "by making no improvements such as paved streets, have no modern schools, sewage systems, electric lights and other things now enjoyed by the people of today, but when we have such a community we would soon find that the people would move to the places where they can enjoy these things. Reduce the taxes seventy-five per cent and not have these things and you will also lose seventy-five per cent of the population."

Touching upon the school program he said, "It is difficult to know how far to go in spending money to have a curriculum to develop the qualities in all the children. What would be essentials to teach for one person would be considered a 'fad' to another. The minimum school teachings should develop the children to make them good and useful citizens."

CITIES DELINQUENCIES

In closing he said that the people are not so much interested in lower taxes as they are in creating a tax scheme that would have the other fellow pay his share of the taxes. "If the delinquent taxes were paid we would not have the worries we now have and money for all purposes would be available," he declared.

T. D. Krinn, deputy county auditor, gave much information on tax statistics and how much money is paid for school purposes. "With the delinquent taxes increasing from $61,436.16 in 1930 to $202,809.36 in 1933 you can readily see why it is difficult to balance the budgets. If an effort would be made to collect these delinquent taxes the tax problem would be solved." Mr. Krinn congratulated the Board of Education on its operation of the city schools with limited funds available.

E. L. Daley, superintendent of schools, was toastmaster and the teachers and guests were welcomed by E. I. Gephart, principal of the high school.

City Represented at Flower Display

The Columbus Spring Flower Show is being held at the Memorial Hall on Saturday and Sunday and promises to be a delightful treat for anyone interested in flowers and flower gardens.

Brehmer Greenhouses have been allotted space at the show and in addition to a display of spring plants will feature Lilacs in full bloom, "Golden Glean" double Nasturtium, and "Chrysanth" the new variety of Calendula that was originated in California last season and released by the seedsmen this year.

The show opens at noon on Saturday and closes at ten o'clock Sunday night.

Carrene
NO GASES
NO ODORS
NO PRESSURE

● Here is an announcement that should amaze and thrill you. With every Grunow refrigerator you get probably the most important thing of all, a safe refrigerant, at no extra cost.

Carrene, exclusive with Grunow, is a refrigerant that has almost the simple properties of water itself. You can see it, smell it, and hold it in your hand, without danger or inconvenience. There is no noxious odor, it operates without pressure, it is a liquid and not a gas, under all ordinary conditions and temperatures. Yet it is one of the most efficient refrigerants ever developed.

Remember the importance of finding out "what's inside" an electric refrigerator. The Grunow dealer will be glad to show you "what's inside" a Grunow—why it is more efficient in operation, why it is so smooth-running, why there is little likelihood of service being necessary, and why it will cut down the light bill.

WILL WAR COME

Hitler's Desires When Germany Is Rearmed Results in Worry Among Europeans.

SITUATION STUDIED

Now Want Peace and Has Promised It, Leaders Declare.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Adolf Hitler, more than any other man, holds the key to European peace. H. R. Knickerbocker declares in this article of his series, "Will War Come?" What his attitude will be when Germany is sufficiently rearmed to make victory probable is the question not even Hitler himself can answer at the moment, Knickerbocker writes.

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
Copyrighted, 1934, By International News Service. Reproduction in whole or part forbidden.

BERLIN, March 23.—Germany is morally re-armed. Pacifism is the No. 1 crime.

Nine million German males from 15 to 30 are too young to have been in the last war. They are the majority of all ages from 15 to 50. They, the youth of Germany, want to live and die as heroes, not as common men.

They believe, and the entire German nation is taught today, that the Germans are a race of lords destined to rule.

These are the moral factors that point to German willingness for war.

But Germany also is rearming especially in the air and eventually may recover the military superiority she had on the continent in 1914. Germany too, has driven a wedge between France and Poland and has successfully prevented a "prudent war."

These are the instruments of German willingness for war.

REPLACE FRENCH

Finally Germany wants to unite in the third Reich the eighty to eighty-five million Germans in Europe of whom fifteen to twenty million live outside present day Germany. She wants to recover everything she lost in the last war. She wants to win, in addition, sufficient territory either continental or colonial to provide the space she considers necessary for her prosperity. In the end the Germans hope to replace the French as masters of the continent.

These are the German aims. Most of them are incapable of realization without war. These moral factors, these instruments and these aims of Germany point to eventual war.

All this is not decisive for the question "Will war come in Europe?" The most serious consideration must be paid to factors which speak against German willingness, preparedness and aims for war.

Germany is not yet prepared for war. The vast majority of neutral, as well as anti-German technical, military opinion in Europe believes that Germany cannot again become as strong absolutely as she was in 1914 in less than three years, even if she had a completely free hand to rearm. She may never become so strong again relative to her potential enemies because while Germany rearms, according to every indication today, will arm upward with equal if not greater speed.

These are instruments against Germany's willingness for war.

But not less important at the moment is the fact that Adolf Hitler himself does not want war. This is reported not because he has said it so often but because he has made every one of his people believe it and because according to the best qualified observers who ought to know he has made himself believe it.

DOESN'T WANT WAR

He declares and believes that he does not want war not only today when Germany is unable to hope for victory but also tomorrow when she may think she could be victorious. Among thirty of Europe's leading statesmen, kings, dictators, foreign ministers, war ministers and chiefs of general staffs interviewed during the course of this investigation not one failed to declare that Hitler is sincere in declaring he does not want war now or in the near future. Most agreed that not even Hitler himself in his own heart is able to say today what his attitude toward war will be when Germany is sufficiently rearmed to make victory probable.

When that time comes Hitler will probably be, as he certainly is now, the one man in Europe who will be decisive for the question, "Will War Come?" He is today more nearly omnipotent in Germany than ever. His power, based on Germany's mystical concept of him as a prophet of the German blood brotherhood, is almost absolute. He controls the thoughts and feelings of his countrymen to a degree most difficult for a non-German to understand. He can do with Germany as he likes.

He is the first German chancellor since the war with sufficient

CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1934

CLARK VICIOUS AS STATE ENDS ITS TESTIMONY

Man Charged With Assisting Pierpont, Makley to Soon Know Fate

SHOUSE ON STAND

Hope to Complete all Testimony Friday

LIMA, March 23.—The state rested its case today in the first degree murder trial of Russell Clark, Dillinger gangster, after Mrs. Lucy Sarber, widow of Allen-co's slain sheriff, told for the third time in three weeks how her husband was killed by the desperadoes who invaded the jail last Oct. 12 and freed John Dillinger.

While Mrs. Sarber's testimony was substantially the same as that she gave in the trials of Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, both of whom were convicted of the crime, she was unable to identify Clark as she had Pierpont and Makley.

TRIAL SPEEDED

Following the conclusion of the state's case, Judge E. E. Everett, who is presiding at the trial, announced that he may call a night session of court in an effort to speed Clark's case to the jury. The defense case was expected to be brief and it was believed possible that the jury may get the case either late tonight or early tomorrow.

Clark's hitherto sullen mood has changed into one of viciousness. When the state introduced what it claimed was tantamount to a confession by Clark to the crime, the reputed Dillinger machine gunner kicked savagely at a waste paper basket at the counsel table. It upset and caused a clatter to ring through the crowded courtroom.

He glared at two deputy sheriffs, Don Miller and V. G. Clark as they took the witness stand to relate a conversation they said took place between Clark, Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley. The latter two already have been convicted of murder in the last trial with the Sarber slaying and are awaiting sentence to the electric chair.

The testimony of the two deputies climaxed an exciting day during which Mrs. Lena Pierpont, 52-year-old mother of Harry Pierpont, was summoned to the witness stand by the state. She denied that Clark accompanied her son to the Pierpont farm home at Leipsic on the day of the crime.

Prosecutor Ernest M. Botkin introduced a statement that the woman had made in police court a few days after the murder in which Mrs. Pierpont was said to have identified Clark as a member of the raiding party that freed Dillinger from the Allen-co jail. He sought to question her at length regarding alleged discrepancies in the story, but Judge E. E. Everett held that the state could not impeach the testimony of one of its own witnesses.

SHOUSE THERE, TOO

The testimony of Mrs. Pierpont created as much sensation as that of Edward Shouse, a member of the gang, earlier in the day who had turned state's evidence. Shouse, a convict in the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, definitely linked Clark with the jail delivery plot and charged that the man on trial was one of the trio who actually entered the jail and shot and clubbed Sheriff Sarber to death.

Dunlap For Congress?

Col. Groce Rings Bell at Republican Meeting With Former Assistant Agriculture Chief Neither Affirming Nor Denying Statement.

Maybe a new candidate is preparing to enter the field for Congress.

At the Republican 'precession' dinner in Columbus last week, Col. C. E. Groce, at a table occupied by Pickaway-co following of the G. O. P., as a matter of pleasantry, introduced Renick W. Dunlap as "The next congressman from the Eleventh Ohio district."

He said: "Mr. Dunlap is a Pickaway-co farmer and has been identified with farm organizations for many years. He was a member of the Ohio senate from this district, was state dairy and food commissioner, was secretary of the Ohio State board of agriculture, and for four years was assistant secretary of agriculture during the administration of President Hoover. He would make an ideal candidate and I think he could be elected. So why not have a Congressman from Pickaway-co, one of the best counties in the state."

Mr. Dunlap, hearing Col. Groce's introduction, made neither denial nor affirmation of the statement.

City's Teachers Hear Kershner

70 Enjoy Excellent Meeting at American Hotel; Values of Retirement System Told by Speaker; Collection of Delinquent Taxes Should Greatly Aid Finances of Counties, It Is Brought Out.

A very enjoyable meeting of teachers of Circleville schools, members of the Board of Education and guests was held at the New American Hotel Coffee Shop Thursday evening. Over 70 attended the meeting.

The teachers and guests heard an interesting talk by W. E. Kershner, Columbus, secretary of the Teachers' Retirement system, who told of the operation of the fund and gave other information. "The teachers' retirement fund is a joint arrangement between the state of Ohio and the teachers," he said, "and the money paid into the fund by the teachers belongs to them. If they resign from the teaching job the money they have paid into the fund is refunded to them."

"With a fund of $28,000,000 with which to operate the Association has money enough to care for all its requirements of pensions paid, deaths, and refunds to teachers. This money is invested only in Ohio bonds so that it is secured and also helps to carry on the educational program of the state," he continued.

Commenting on the school system he said that "The public schools are the backbone of good government. We can't let down in the system for if we did our government would retard and it would take years to recoup the losses."

"The children of the United States are the last things we should economize on," he asserted, "for without schools we would have seventy-five per cent illiteracy. With the schools we can combat communism and we should not consider the schools as an expense but the backbone of Democracy." (Continued on Page Six)

Two more dollars had been added to the city treasury, Friday, after Dwight 'Pinky' Wilson, S. Washington-st., and Emmett Greenlee, 123 N. Scioto-st., were called into Mayor W. B. Cady's court, Thursday evening, for operating their automobiles with only one headlight.

Firm Cites Application of Proportional Rates to Water Rates Unfair.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23.—A strong plea in behalf of the proposal of rail carriers serving the Midwest to restrict the application of proportional rates on grain and grain products from Illinois and Kentucky points to southern territory was registered today by John W. Eshelman and Sons, of Circleville, in a brief filed with the interstate commerce commission.

Declaring that in its business as a manufacturer of animal and poultry feed, it gets its raw materials from the west and north, shipping them to the east and southwest, the Circleville firm told the ICC that application of the proportional rates to water rates is unfair.

The proportional rates were originally intended only to apply where other factors were equal, and the balancing all-rail rate had been paid, the Circleville firm insisted.

Two-fold application of the lowest rates, including the lowest water rate and the lowest rail rate, is giving advantage to coastal mills, and forcing the interior grain mills out of existence, the Eshelman brief claimed.

The brief was prepared by C. H. Hilmyer, attorney, and John D. Mumford, traffic manager, for the Eshelman company.

ELLIOTT AND HILL DENY INDICTMENTS

Orville Elliott and Charles Hill, this city, were held for trial under $200 bond each when they pleaded not guilty to petit larceny of property belonging to the Container Corporation of America. The hearing was before Judge J. W. Adkins.

Tom A. Renick represented Elliott and Hill. Judge Adkins has not yet set the trial date.

Elliott, whose case was investigated by a previous grand jury, has sued the Container Corporation for malicious prosecution in connection with the alleged theft. Because the sum of $25,000 and a foreign corporation concerned the action has been transferred from common pleas to federal court.

INCOME TAXES TO BE VOTED? UTILITIES PAY

House to act on Proposal to Net 18 Millions; Cornstalks' Help

BOOST EXCISE TAX

10-Mill Limitation to be Overcome by Action

COLUMBUS, March 23.—Reviving hope that a permanent tax program may yet be adopted before adjournment of the legislature, the House of Representatives today plunged into consideration of the fundamental tax bills.

First on the house calendar was the income tax proposal, calculated to yield approximately $18,000,000 annually, all of it going toward maintenance of the public schools, which would receive equal aid from the state.

Endorsed unanimously at a meeting of the "farm bloc" headed by Rep. Corwin H. Swan (D) Apple Creek, and representing at present about 25 members of the house, the bill was offered as a substitute for the administration's 3 per cent retail sales tax.

Should the income tax measure go down to defeat it was conceded even by its severest critics that the sales tax would then have to be accepted to lift the state out of its financial morass. However, Rep. P. E. Ward (R) Chardon, author of the bill and the entire farm bloc were confident of victory for the income tax proposal.

Thus far the sales tax measure has not even been reported out of committee, income tax advocates having sufficient strength there to prevent action on it until the fate of their own substitute program is determined.

Once the income tax measure is out of the way the House expected to take up consideration of the Gunsett-Roberts school financing bill, already passed by the senate with amendments raising the annual amount of state aid from the present $42,000,000 to about $48,000,000.

Credit for approving the first bill on any permanent tax program when it voted 88 to 9 on the bill of Rep. B. J. McCluskey (D) Cleveland, increasing excise taxes of utilities companies so as to return to the state about $4,000,000 of the $6,000,000 they will save when the 10-mill real estate tax limitation becomes effective next year.

Bitter debate over Sen. E. N. Walvogel's proposal to extend the state aid to parochial schools for one year preceded enactment of the bill in the senate. The Cincinnati's amendment finally was voted down, 13 to 12. The vote on passage of the bill minus the parochial amendment was 22 to 4.

Sensors voting for the parochial schools amendment were: (R) Akron; (D) Cleveland; Bower (R) Rushsylvania; Donovan (D) Toledo; Espy (D) Cincinnati; Ford (D) Chillicothe; Handley (R) Cincinnati; Herner (D) Monroeville; Marshall (R) Cleveland; Mosier (D) Cleveland; Roberts (R) Youngstown; Smolka (D) Cleveland, and Walvogel.

Voting against the state aid to parochial schools were: Emmons (R) Akron; Gingham (R) Columbus; Gunsett (D) Van Wert; Haynes (D) West Lafayette; McFever (R) Gloucester; Lewis (R) St. Clairsville; Lowery (R) New Concord; Matthews (D) Enon; Pfeiffer (R) Columbus; Ruff (R) Canton; Sheppard (R) Akron; Whittemore (R) Akron, and Wolfe (R) Mansfield.

Crosby Stays Home As Threat is Heard

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—Bing Crosby, radio and screen star, today cancelled plans for a sailing vacation, because of reports that threats had been overheard to kidnap his 9-month-old son.

"These threats were made and I think it best to stay right home to see that the matter goes no further," Crosby said.

I have taken every precaution to protect my family because I want the world to know that Hollywood no longer is taking gangster intimidations sitting down."

COUNTY DADS TO HELP AGED

Commissioners Accept Task in Co-operation With Old Age Pension Program.

The commissioners of Pickaway-co, John W. Hay, Burr H. Rader, and Ralph May, will act as a board of aid for the aged under the old age pension law, it was announced by Auditor Cliff M. White, Friday.

The action was taken after a request was received from John W. McSweeney, state welfare director, that the commissioners act in that capacity.

No applications for pensions will be made direct to the state department. As soon as the county organizations have been completed over the state necessary application blanks and bulletins of instruction will be issued from the welfare department of the county boards and publicity will be given on time, place, and manner for filing.

Mr. McSweeney's letter to the commissioners in which he asked their cooperation did not make acceptance mandatory but urged that the county dads accept the assignment. Had they not been inclined to serve as a Board of Aid for the Aged it would have been necessary to appoint an independent board.

M. L. Brown, prominent worker in the Fraternal Order of Eagles, sponsor of the Old Age Pension program in Ohio, is director of the division of aid for the aged, a part of the state welfare department.

Copies of the new law have been sent to the commissioners.

DOUDS DIVORCE

Charging gross neglect of duty and that his wife refused to return, George Douds, Folsom-ave., sued for divorce in common pleas court, Friday, from Fannie Douds, whom he married in Greenup, Ky., Jan. 19, 1929.

The petition, prepared by R. L. Criswell, charges Mrs. Douds has transferred her affections to another man whose name is known to the plaintiff.

Besides divorce, the plaintiff asks a restraining order to bar Mrs. Douds from entering their home to remove any property. They have no children.

GAS FIGHT BANK IN SUPREME COURT

COLUMBUS, March 23.—The Columbus Gas and Fuel Company case was back in the state supreme court today on a request of the company counsel for clarification of the court's ruling that a 48-cent gas for this city is not confiscatory.

The U. S. Supreme court last week dismissed the gas company's appeal for want of jurisdiction, so in an attempt to get the case once more before the U. S. court they sought an interpretation from the state supreme court that its previous order, in effect reducing the rate from 55 cents to 48 cents, was final.

Hearing on the latest motion was set down for next Thursday.

Inter-City Kiwanis Meeting is Monday

The local Kiwanis club is making plans for a huge meeting Monday evening when the Northwest Columbus club makes its journey to this city in the district's system of inter-city meetings.

The meeting will be held at Hanley's tearoom beginning at 6:30 p. m.

The Columbus club will deliver the Fellowship chest to this city with the local club to take it to Portsmouth on Wednesday, April 4. Jules Bruzel, celebrated radio entertainer, will provide the entire program here.

A 100 per cent attendance is expected at the Monday meeting.

PRESIDENT AWAITING DECISIONS

Suggestions for Peace in Labor-Motor Fight Made by Roosevelt

ACTION EXPECTED

Johnson Acts Errand Boy in Controversy

WASHINGTON, March 23.—President Roosevelt virtually aside routine engagements, is awaiting word from either in the automobile labor fight that it will accept his suggestions for peace.

White House doors are open whenever either the manufacturers or labor officials come to see the president.

There were no new developments in the labor negotiations tonight. Both sides today in conferences, however, some sort was expected tonight.

WAITING, WAITING. Apparently, the President's definite proposal for peace, the executives and labor House conference group. Until some news is brought to Mr. Roosevelt simply waiting and waiting situation carefully.

Recovery Administration Johnson will bring word. White House officials say Johnson is ready to respond to suggestions. Johnson's liaison man between executives and the workers is waiting.

The workers want the employers to recognize the agents for collective bargaining regardless of whether they be A. F. of L. officials or Green, they asked the employers to compel such recognition.

It was necessary to the broad powers to issue the Industrial Relations Act. Automobile executives they will gladly begin workers' elected representatives but will not recognize A. F. of L. men. There, the situation appeared to stand.

The only concrete accomplishment revealed so far was a postponement of the threatened general strike of the Green announced the strike would not be ordered pending the outcome of the negotiations here. The date of the strike postponement was for 48 hours, which would have called 250,000 men out today.

PICKAWAY LIQUOR STORE PERSONNEL REMAINS MYSTERY

Carpenters at Work on Wilkes Building; Yates Only Man Appointed.

Just who the cashier and clerks in the Pickaway-co state liquor store will be remained a mystery today. Appointments have been made in many other counties but Pickaway's employees have not yet been named.

Adrian Yates, E. Main-st., has been appointed supervisor but he is the only person so far to receive an appointment for store duty.

It was reported today that all appointments would be definitely settled this afternoon but at press-time no word had yet been received here.

Work is going forward on the Wilkes building, W. Main-st., where the store will be located. Carpenters have been busy more than a week and it is expected the store will be burglar-proof after it has been completed.

Only the east half of the large store-room is being used. The store will not be opened for business until after April 15.

ENGLISH HORSE WINS

AINTRIE, Eng.,—Golden Miller today won national steeplechase, a tree's back-breaking hazard, beating starters in time of 2:10. Price of 40 to 1.

BOBBY JONES TRAILS IN COMEBACK

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—All eyes were turned to this historic southern town, where they have hauled out the black-bordered cards of golf and apall of grief hangs over a stricken populace as from the visitation of a great tragedy, as the faced citizens gathered in the streets today, wagged their heads and spoke in hushed tones.

You edge in close and listened intently you could hear a collocation of spruce Van Dyke and a grizzled face, incongruous in checkered golf clothes when you expected to see long-tailed coat and a glouch stetson, murmuring: "The Emperor is dead. The Emperor is dead," while his brother-in-law echoed "Amen, Amen."

STILL HAS CHANCE

As to relate there were some who wrote among them, and it may be that they will turn out they are right, this humble department with its hope for the present, faith in the future, and awesome regard for the vagaries of tournament golf, permission to raise up with a but firm suggestion that all that may be what it seems and that Bobby may just be asleep.

It is the last to deny that Bobby is a cause for alarm and that a doctor might be needed but it is to us that we found the still beating strong young lawyer of Atlanta, Ga., who is playing golf again after a year's rest, shot 76 on the Augusta national golf course yesterday and the lamentations were quiet, long and loud.

It is to admit that when Robert Jones, Jr., shoots a 76 on the Augusta golf course that it is a wonder at and to marvel that it could happen at all because we, like a lot of others, had been to the point where we took exception for granted and weren't to account for bad days.

It is the thing that sticks out on a bare foot counting to us is that today, tomorrow and Sunday are other days, the battle of Bobby's courage, comeback is but begun, that 18 holes, after all, have been played, and that there are 54 more to go.

Bobby has done an amazing and courageous, it may prove foolhardy, thing in subjecting the reeling fourteen years of golf, the climax so brilliantly by winning the British and American amateur championships in 1930 to be onslaughts of a battle of campaign-hardened veterans, but even yesterday's unfortunate debacle it seems too yet to shout "I told you so, never come back."

There's no denying that Bobby

is in a tough spot. He is the first to admit it, but he has been under fire before and has pulled through brilliantly and on top.

Forty-four of the field of 72 that went out against Bobby yesterday came home either ahead or even with him.

THREE IN TIE

The end of the day, found Horton-Smith, of Chicago, Jimmy Hines, a comparative unknown from New York, and Emmett French, of Southern Pines, tied for the lead position with seventies. True this is two strokes under par but there's nothing unusual about a 70 in a golf tournament, although if you put four of them together you can take home the money.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

THERE hasn't been a sporting event in this country in several years which has attracted as much attention as Bobby Jones' attempt to come back to the heights of golfdom which he abandoned three and one-half years ago. This morning with 36 holes played the Atlanta "grand-slammer" is six strokes behind the leaders, Horton Smith, Emmett French, and Jimmy Hines, all of whom bagged 70s in the first round of play.

Jones has always been admired for his golfing ability, which reached a degree of super-excellence, has never gone to his head. Among golfers he's just another good fellow.

None of the professional, amateur, or mixed tournaments scheduled by central Ohio professionals will be played on the Pickaway Country club course. The matches are passed around to several layouts but the local one, named by visiting professionals last year as one of the finest in the state, will go hungry. The greens committee is working on plans which may bring several good attractions here, however.

These Scotch-twp girls organized a strong basketball team. In a game this week they defeated the Independent Mills, of Columbus, by a 40-36 score. Helen Williams and E. Durr did most of the scoring for the Commercial Pointers counting 19 and 18, respectively. They have booked the Corpus Christi girls and a Circleville team, the identity of which is not known to us.

Some baseball slang: Base knock, safe hit; base on stones, ground ball that hits a pebble and bounces away from the fielder; Bleeder, scratchy single; Blind Tom, umpire; Blue dart, line drive.

20 BOATS ENTERED FOR 284 MILE RACE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—America's only international sailing race, the annual classic of southern waters will go into its fifth year, March 31, when 20 more schooners and yawls with flying canvas will line up at the end of Recreation pier for the firing of a United States Coast Guard gun at high noon for the long pull over a course of 284 nautical miles for picturesque Morro Castle and Havana, Cuba. Thirteen boats are already entered in the classic and many more are to follow in the ensuing weeks prior to the start of the event.

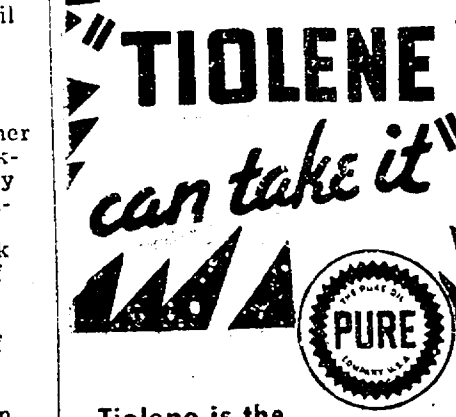

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA
"Girl Without a Room," playing today and Saturday at the Cliftona Theatre, is an adaptation of Jack Lait's sensational story of the same name. In the screen play Charles Farrell and Marguerite Churchill furnish the romantic interest, while Charlie Ruggles, Gregory Ratoff, Walter Wolf, and Grace Bradley are in the supporting cast.

The picture was directed by Ralph Murphy from a screen script written by Frank Butler and Claude Binyon.

The story is the fast and furious romance between a young boy from the mountains of Tennessee and the most glamorous artist's model in all Paris.

Charles Farrell wins a scholarship in the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Montmartre. His success comes so suddenly, he is bewildered by it, and arrives in the art colony still bewildered.

Sportsmen of County Busy

While activities of the Pickaway-co Farmer's and Sportsman's association are not surrounded by a fan-fare of publicity, the organization, nevertheless, is a busy one and of much advantage to Pickaway-co.

During the past year the following things have been done here: 1,004 pheasants and 315 pheasant eggs have been put out in every township in the county; Scippo and Congo creeks received 25 gallons of small mouthed and large mouthed fingerling black bass;

Deercreek has received 1,250 mature small mouthed and large mouthed black bass;

Darby creek has received 200 mature black bass and 600 fingerlings, 250 crappies, and 75 rock bass all mature;

Walnut creek has received 1,800 large and small mouthed bass fingerlings;

Besides these additions to the county streams, 4,000 or more game fish have been rescued from the river and creek bottoms where they had been left by flood waters. They were returned to the creeks.

In the last few weeks 120 Missouri rabbits and 12 raccoons were liberated in the county.

The association's annual fish fry and banquet will be held in the Elks home April 6.

KINGSTON

DEATH OF INFANT

Dorothy Pennington, youngest daughter of Oscar Pennington died at her home on John Wilson farm in Pickaway-co, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock of pneumonia at the age of 2 years and 9 months.

The remains were taken to Kentucky for burial on Thursday. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of H. B. Shannon.

NE PLUS ULTRA MEETING

The Ne Plus Ultra Sunday school class of the M. E. church met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Mary Ford.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett, vice-president presided in the absence of the president, Miss Katherine Brundage. The meeting was opened at 7:30 o'clock by all singing "In the Garden." Devotionals were in charge of Miss Ada Merriam, after singing the song "What A Friend." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

and followed with roll call by the secretary, Mrs. Bessie Sheridan, after the business session the song "Nailed to the Cross," was sung by all and the following program was given with Mrs. Mary Ford as chairman piano solo "Irish Melodies" played by Mrs. N. F. Bond; reading "That Evening Overhead" by Mrs. K. E. Shannon; two readings "When We Want Something New," and an Italian reading "Giavanni," by Mrs. C. L. Breeden.

Miss Ford was assisted by Mesdames Frances Kreisel, Thekla Routh, Madge Minor, Bessie Strausbaugh, Esther Kreisel, and Maud Bush in serving refreshments consisting of fruit jello with whipped cream, wafers, candy and coffee to the thirty members and visitors present. The visitors were Mrs. H. B. Shannon, Mrs. N. J. Ford, Joyce Kreisel and Dorothy Davis.

The next meeting will be held one week later than the usual date. A full attendance is desired. The time is one-half hour earlier on account of Lenten Service at the M. E. church in the evening.

Miss Ada Merriam was an overnight guest Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Gatten in Columbus.

Clark Dugard of Hazard Green, W. Va., spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beavers and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bach of near Circleville were Tuesday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Search and family. Mrs. Search attended the Ne Plus Ultra S. S. class meeting in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Search and family recently moved to the Ed May farm just north of Kingston from the Gattens farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and son, David Lee of Bucyrus, O., spent from Sunday until Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Betz and family. Mrs. Betz accompanied them here to visit until Sunday.

Mrs. D. H. Beckwith is on the sick list at the writing.

Miss "Daisy" Gattens had the misfortune to fall Monday morning, and broke a bone in her left ankle. She was taken to the Chillicothe Hospital for an X-ray.

Mrs. H. B. Shannon and daughter, Joan, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Dugard in Chillicothe.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

Next Sunday morning, March 25, will be our Young People's service. The young people are planning to have a "non-dance" party in the service in the way of a thank offering for the fact that our church is still standing and at the time. The pastor will preach on the theme "Why I Believe in the Resurrection of Christ." All are urged to attend. The service begins at ten o'clock.

The Junior C. E. meets at 6:30 Sunday evening. The Senior C. E. will meet about 8:30. A large attendance is expected because they will open the question box at that time, and at least a part of the meeting will be given over to answering the questions found therein, and a round table conference over the problems presented by the questions. The Young People expect to serve refreshments at this meeting.

There will be reception of members on both March 25, (next Sunday) and on Easter morning. This is done to make it possible for all who wish to be present on one of these dates.

Very special preparations are being made for the regular Easter service to be held on Easter morning. Special announcement of this will be given next week.

The scouts will meet on Thursday evening at 6:30 at the Manac. The Guild will meet next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the church.

ASHVILLE ITEMS

Miss Gretchen Plum, a student at Ohio University, Athens, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Plum and daughter, Eliza.

The banquet sponsored by the Parent-Teachers' Association honoring the football boys and the basketball boys and girls of Ashville high school was held at the high school auditorium Friday evening. Rev. Ridenour, of Canal Winchester, a Lutheran pastor there, and a former Capital University athlete, was the principal speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Lottie Hartman and daughter, Florence, of Columbus, visited Saturday with their aunt, Mrs. Kathryn Northstine.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Martin and family spent Saturday with Mr. Martin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Martin of Springfield.

Mrs. Elda Behrke and daughter, Dorothy, of Lodi, Ohio, are spending several days with Mrs. Behrke's father, Rev. Rickerts.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowers and daughter, Marilyn, of Wilkesport, spent the week-end with Mrs. Bowers' mother, Mrs. Clara Bowers and daughters, Helen and Georgia.

Mrs. Karl Bowers entertained Tuesday evening in honor of her son, Elwood's twelfth birthday anniversary. Those who enjoyed the occasion were, Ernest Martin, Mrs. Martin, William Martin, Maurice Martin, Charles Gray, Les Sherman, Cecil McGlone and Norman Flowers.

The new government school which was organized last week, elected officers Tuesday at the session. It was decided to call it the "Roosevelt College." Donald Nance was chosen president; Robert Flowers as vice-president, and Robert Welsh as secretary-treasurer. Three courses are being pursued, Political Science, Sociology and Psychology under tutorage of Miss Maxey of Circleville.

America here they are!

To fill the record-breaking nationwide demand, Chevrolet cars are being produced at a record-breaking rate of 4000 units a day!

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

CHEVROLET factories are breaking records, trying to give America all the cars it wants. 4000 units a day are rolling off the assembly lines. February output was twice that of January. March output, according to present indications, will be three times that of January. More Chevrolets are now being produced than any other make of automobile in the world. And today, Chevrolet is happy to report that all its dealers will soon be in a position to make immediate deliveries.

When you consider how short a time the new Chevrolet has been in production—when you consider, also, that the 1934 car is not last year's model improved, but a basically new automobile, with sweeping changes in design—this production record becomes somewhat of an accomplishment. But, a still greater accomplishment, in our opinion, is the way that these cars have all been produced!

Despite continued nationwide pressure for more and more volume, every car that has left the factories has been built and tested to meet Chevrolet's highest standards of care, precision and quality. The result: When you place your order for a new Chevrolet, you'll not only get a big, rugged "Knee-Action" car—you're also assured of getting a typical Chevrolet car in economy, dependability and long life.

6,000 SCOUTS TO TAKE PART IN HUGE CIRCUS

Many Phases of Scout Life
To Be Shown on April 27, 28, in Columbus.

Commending their work of the past twelve months, some 6,000 Scouts will swing into the Coliseum at the State Fair grounds in Columbus on April 27 and 28, to open their annual scout circus. The event will unfold the many phases of Boy Scout work with four or five hundred boys on the floor demonstrating such activities as First Aid, Camping, Pioneering, and Scout Drills. Meetings are held each week by the one hundred and ninety troops located in the different communities of the counties of Franklin, Delaware, Union, Madison, Fayette, Pickaway, Ross, Hocking, Fairfield and Greenfield in Highland-co. At these meetings the boys are under the direction of their scoutmaster, a man of at least twenty-one years of age who is an American citizen and understands boy interests. Each of these troops, besides the scoutmaster, has a Troop Committee of three to ten members who represent some church, school or the general interests of the community. The Troop Committee assists the scoutmaster and encourages him in his leadership of the boys in their program of training for citizenship and character. Within the troop, the scouts are divided into patrols which may vary in number, up to eight. Each patrol has its patrol leaders and adopts some name for itself, such as, the George Washington Patrol or the Buffalo Patrol. Boys who are Scouts must all subscribe to the Scout Oath:

On my honor I will do my best:
1. To do my duty to God and my Country, and to obey the Scout Law;
2. To help other people at all times;
3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight.
Scouts are also expected to do at least one "Good Turn" for some one each day, whether they be in Camp, School or at Home. Some times these "Good Turns" mean the saving of human life through the Scout's knowledge of first aid or life saving. More often, however, it is an expression of interest in someone's welfare which may be expressed by picking up broken glass in the road to save someone a punctured tire.

Healthful At Any Time of the Year, Always Economical, and Especially Welcome During Lenten Period.

Dear Friends in Circleville:
As a rule fish and sea food (the latter are the shell fish, lobsters, etc.) require only a short period of cooking. Too long cooking dries out the delicate flavor and makes it less palatable. The connective tissues in fish are very tender, and to cook fish so that the tissues retain the flavored juices means as a rule, a short period of contact with the heat.
At this season of the year fish is not only plentiful in the coast districts but cities inland and even the smaller places manage to have good supplies of fresh or frozen fish, especially at the end of the week. Plan to serve fish on "fish day" unless you live in a sea coast town when every day is "fish day".

Baked Fish
To bake fish the housewife does not need to buy a whole fish and stuff it, although there is no more delectable Lenten dinner. Fillets or steaks may be baked. One method is to dip fillets of white fish in one cup sweet milk seasoned with one tablespoon of salt; then dip into finely sifted bread crumbs. Cover all sides with the crumbs, and lay in a baking dish. Rub with a little melted fat. Place in a hot oven for ten minutes. No water should be added to the dish. The oven should be 500 degrees. Remove carefully to a hot platter, serve garnished with thin slices of lemon. Or pass a tomato or tartare sauce with this.

Split, Baked Fish
Select a three-pound fish for baking; that is, one without too many small bones. Remove the head, spinal bone and its side bones and any others which are obvious. Wipe with clean damp cloth. Have ready two cups bread crumbs; one half small onion; one tablespoon minced bacon; one half teaspoon minced summer savory; three slices bacon; one third teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper.
Mix the crumbs, onion, minced bacon, green pepper and seasonings and spread on the fish which is oiled out flat. Place a slice of bacon on this, and fold the fish almost together, holding the sides toes; two and one half cups cheese sauce; lemon juice; chopped parsley; one half teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper; sprinkle of cayenne; three tablespoons melted butter.

Cut the fish in strips, removing all bones. Brush top of each piece with butter. Sprinkle with lemon juice and finely minced parsley, then roll. Season the centers out of the tomatoes. Season the inside of the tomatoes with salt, pepper and put a roll of fish in each. Place in a baking dish and add a very little water to the bottom of the dish. Bake thirty minutes in a hot oven basting the fish frequently with the liquid in the pan. Serve with hot cheese sauce. Enough for eight.

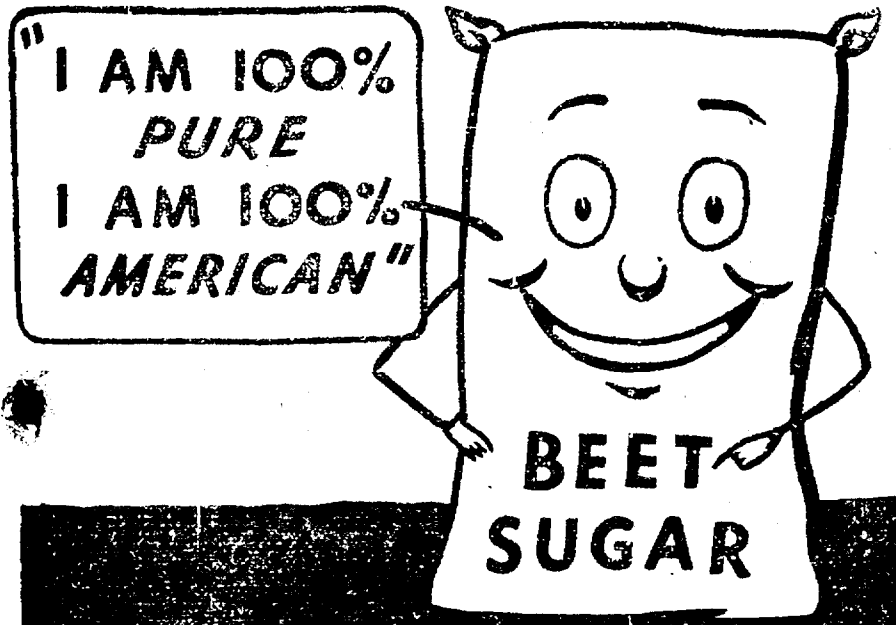

Cornmeal Oysters
One dozen large oysters; one cup cornmeal; one cup flour; one teaspoon salt; three fourths cup milk; one teaspoon baking powder; two eggs, well beaten; deep fat for frying.
Thoroughly mix the cornmeal, flour, salt, and baking powder. Add the beaten eggs and milk, and mix smoothly. Fold the oysters into the batter. Drop by tablespoons into deep, hot fat. Have an oyster in each fryer. Cook until well done. Drain on thick paper toweling and serve at once. Enough for six servings.

Crabmeat With Mushrooms
One cup crabmeat (all shells and fibres removed); one tablespoon lemon juice; one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; a few grains cayenne pepper; one cup white sauce; three hard cooked eggs, chopped; one cup canned or sautéed fresh mushrooms; one teaspoon minced onion; one eighth teaspoon paprika; two and one half teaspoons salt.
Two cups cooked or canned fish, flaked; one cup white sauce; one tablespoon orange juice; one half teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper; one slice onion, chopped fine; one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; one cup bread crumbs; two hard cooked eggs, chopped.
Add the crumbs, onion and Worcestershire sauce, eggs, seasonings, orange juice and fish to the white sauce. Put into buttered ramekins. Sprinkle with crumbs and brown in the hot oven, 400 degrees. Enough for five servings.

In Tomato Cups
One and one half pounds fish; twelve medium sized ripe tomatoes; two and one half cups cheese sauce; lemon juice; chopped parsley; one half teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper; sprinkle of cayenne; three tablespoons melted butter.
Cut the fish in strips, removing all bones. Brush top of each piece with butter. Sprinkle with lemon juice and finely minced parsley, then roll. Season the centers out of the tomatoes. Season the inside of the tomatoes with salt, pepper and put a roll of fish in each. Place in a baking dish and add a very little water to the bottom of the dish. Bake thirty minutes in a hot oven basting the fish frequently with the liquid in the pan. Serve with hot cheese sauce. Enough for eight.

Combine the crabmeat and mushrooms. Add lemon juice, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt, paprika and cayenne. Add to the crab mixture the hot white sauce and eggs. Cook until thoroughly heated. Serve on toast, or in patty

Short History of Wheat

Wheat has been cultivated since the earliest ages—it was the main crop in ancient Egypt and Palestine and formed part of the food supply of the prehistoric cave-dwellers. Today, the United States produces and consumes a greater quantity than any other country in the world. Russia, in normal times, stands next in the list of producers.

author of the bill, assured the Senate that if it were made a part of the bill the entire schools program would be killed in the lower house, which on two previous occasions have defeated a similar proposal to grant state aid to parochial schools.
As a part of a $3,000,000 program under the public works administration, the House passed a bill by Rep. W. F. Roberts, (D) Bridgeport, appropriating $550,000 a year for four years from money paid to the state for the support of inmates in state institutions, for additions and betterments at welfare institutions.

Family Reunions

TIME was when a family reunion was a matter of long preparation and much planning.
Nowadays the member charged with the secretarial duty sends out the postcards, the women of the households get busy with the picnic dinner, and on the morning of the appointed day the various scattered families hitch up, their old flivver and hot to it. The Family Reunion is more popular than the Sunday School picnic.

Pride in a family name is usually back of these gatherings of the clans. As our American civilization takes on age, men think more of their forefathers and the part they played in the building of the great structure we call America.
Sometimes the descendants and relatives by marriage go back to the ancestral home, assembling at the call of the secretary for a day of jollification each summer in the open. College professors and farmers pitch quilts as partners.
The woman of fashion sits down to talk over family affairs with her cousin the seamstress. There is such a mingling of personalities and social ranks as makes for good democracy, and those who participate are the better Americans for their annual reunions with those of blood relationship whose walks in life are usually so far removed they never meet except on these occasions.

Final proof of returning prosperity will be a higher price for having a guy bumped off.

Headlights

HEADLIGHT blindness is one of the most dangerous hazards of night motoring, a hazard not only to the occupants of automobiles and to property, but to the pedestrian. In fact, walking at night along state roads or even the more remote thoroughfares is a matter of taking one's life in one's hands and might well be termed "The Suicide Club."

To the conscientious driver of an automobile glaring headlights are a source of torment. He sees two moons approaching him down the road. On they come growing into two shafts of light and finally lose their individual identities as they bear down upon the tense driver. For a matter of seconds there is nothing visible before him but a fog of light. That interval of light blindness is enough, however, to leave death and destruction in its path.

Few drivers in these times are so careful that they will bring their cars to a stop at the approach of the glaring headlights.
It is not to be wondered at that there are so few, for a pilot cautious enough to stop for the passage of blinding lights would soon find that he had better stay at home so far as progress on his journey was concerned.

Despite crusades against the glaring headlight the menace continues.

"KNAVE'S GIRL"

By JOAN CLAYTON
COPYRIGHT 1932, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

"Funny! It's priceless. Blair doesn't dream it but the old fool practically dropped a million dollars into my lap today. A battle of ballyhoo!" Haverholt exclaimed.
His eyes were bright and shining.
His face was flushed with color.
He struck his hands together. "The bridge battle of the century. Patricia, and you and I the center of it all.
This thing will make us. We'll be publicized from coast to coast.
Columns of free publicity, movies, magazines, radio, everything. We've got the stuff this time. The gentlemen on one side, the roughshod on the other—it's magnificent copy.
We will sit down to begin that tournament with all America watching."

In his mind he heard the grinding of movie cameras, the clack of telegraph instruments, the blare of radio. He saw the sales of his books leap skyward, he saw himself as a national figure, he saw himself triumphant, acclaimed as the greatest bridge player in the world. He had forgotten the girl. He started as she said quietly:

"Of course if the match goes through it will ruin me."

"What nonsense," he said crossly, irritated at being distracted from this splendid dream.

"It isn't nonsense. You must see that it's not." Her face was as pale as his own. She said, "If you persist in going through with this,
how long do you believe I can continue to pose as Patricia Haverholt? How long do you believe it will take Reuben Blair or someone else to learn that I'm not your niece?"

There was a silence in the room.
Patricia swallowed with a dry throat. She watched him with frightened eyes.

"Dozens of people know me," she said dully. "Know that I'm not Patricia Haverholt. They'd see my pictures, they'd—." She buried her face in her hands. "Oh, what a fool
I was," she whispered.

"I thought of all that, he conceded stiffly, reluctantly, angry at this turn in the conversation. "I admit it makes things awkward, awkward but not fatal. Even if it discovered the heavens won't fall. Bridge players aren't saints; no one expects them to be or really cares. There may be a scandal.
What? If I've lived through scandal before."

"No doubt you have," said the girl, bitterly, perceiving that he would never see her side of it, that he was incapable of seeing any side except his own. She said, "Men usually live through scandal. It's the girls who don't."

Haverholt got up, kicking his chair aside.

"I've promised to stick by you,"
he announced coldly. "I'll swear till I'm black in the face that you are my niece. What more do you expect of me? Do you expect me to give up the chance of a lifetime simply because someone might say that your name is Patricia Warren?
If you expect it, you're out of luck."

"I expect nothing from you," said Patricia. "Nothing at all."

They faced each other with actual hatred. Haverholt stalked toward the door. On sudden impulse he turned, came back to the girl, dropped to the arm of her chair.

"I'm sorry, Patricia," he said.
"Really I'm sorry. I know you're in a tough spot or think that you are."

Clark's lips brushed her cheek. Only for a moment, and then she pulled away.

"Go away," said the girl distinctly. "Please go away. Run your bridge match as you choose but you can count me out."

"So you think it's all my fault, Patricia?"

"No," she confessed thickly, wretchedly. "It's mostly mine."

"I've been good to you, haven't I?"

"In your way."

"You knew my way; you knew that I was selfish and egotistical, and didn't give a darn for what people thought. You knew I wouldn't change, that you couldn't change me, didn't you?"

"I suppose so."

"Do you think you would be playing fair to walk out on me now?" he asked her calmly. "Do you think it would be fair for you to refuse to play in the match?"

"I guess not," she replied un-happily. She managed the shadow of a smile. "I can hope, though, can't I, that your plan will fall through?"

"You can hope whatever you want," he agreed in sudden relief.
Someone knocked on the door,
opened it at Haverholt's response.
It was Clark. He looked at the two of them rather oddly and said:

"A gang of newspaper men have just arrived from New York. They want to interview you and Patricia.
Oh yes," he added, "they want to take pictures of you both."

"I'll go," said Haverholt quickly.
"I'll take care of the newspaper men.
You stay here, Patricia."

"They want Patricia too," said Clark.

"They'll have to do without her," Haverholt announced, disappearing through the door. "Even newspaper men can't have everything they want."

He was gone. Clark and the girl were left alone, the girl whose pale, strained face betrayed her utterly.
For a moment there was silence.

Assure the Baby Good Health in Adult Life

Proper Feeding in Infancy Will Lay the Foundation for Future Well-Being

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

INFANT FEEDING has been greatly simplified within the past decade. Yet even today many young mothers confess they are bewildered and uncertain
when planning
the baby's menu.
They are at a loss as to when to wean the baby, when certain foods should be included in the diet, and how often a baby should be fed.

Let me say to every new mother that proper eating habits for the young infant are at the foundation of its future health and happiness. When good eating habits are established early in life, the mother saves herself much unnecessary worry and grief. By good habits, I mean regular feedings at regular intervals.
When properly trained the baby will learn to wake at feeding time and to sleep between times.

Contrary to a popular notion, over 95 per cent of all mothers can nurse their babies. Every baby should be breast fed whenever possible. There is no satisfactory substitute for mother's milk.

Regular Feeding Schedule

The baby should be nursed every four hours during the course of the day. The child is expected to gain an average of five ounces a week for the first few months. Failing to do this, the feedings should be given every three hours instead of every four hours.

If the baby fails to gain weight and is not making the necessary progress, the fault may be due to lack of mother's milk or that the milk is not rich enough. In either case it is imperative that the baby be weaned and a milk formula substituted. Your own doctor will advise you just how to prepare the formula required by your baby.

As I am often asked, "When can the baby be given orange juice?" A teaspoon of orange juice may be given the infant when it is one month old. The amount is gradually increased until at three months, a tablespoon is given twice a day. Tomato juice or prune juice may be substituted for the orange juice.

As I view it, it is wise to give every infant cool liver oil or a substitute. Ask your doctor to tell you just how to give this to your baby.

Another problem which often confronts the young mother is when to give cereals. Cereal may be given at six months. Farina, cream of wheat, or strained oatmeal, should be given first. Later, other cereals may be added. Rice, barley gruel and strained vegetables make excellent additions to the diet.

Never force the baby to eat. Encourage it to eat its food by serving it at regular intervals. I cannot repeat too often that proper eating habits are the short cut to health and happiness.

Answers to Health Queries

Q.—I am a young woman of 27 and have a little boy five years of age. I have had asthma practically all my life and now my child seems to have a tendency in this direction. What can I do to clear it up before it becomes chronic in his case?

A.—Asthma may be due to a number of causes. Various tests will be helpful in locating a possible cause.
This in turn will determine the necessary treatment. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Q.—What would cause an empty, nauseous feeling in the stomach shortly after eating? I have been working hard and seem to be nervous and tired most of the time. Would this have any connection?

A.—Nervousness always affects the digestion. Eat simple foods and make sure that you are getting sufficient rest and relaxation. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

YOU'RE LICKED

If you are sure that life's a cheat
And that the cards are stacked to beat
You in the crooked game;
If in your weakness you believe
The goal of life is to deceive
And heap upon you shame;
If you are prone to ever think
That life will lead you to the brink
Of precipice so high—
Then push you off with merry nose
And chuckle at the deed it's done,
There's little use to try.

If you believe this race is won
By those who have not duty done
Or any effort made;
If you are sure it's all been fixed
And sham and fake together mixed
Before the jockeys weighed;
If you are firm in your belief
That in the race you'll come to grief,
From lack so far apart,
One thing is sure and you'll agree,
That you may not the reason see—
You're licked before you start.

Danish Flag Oldest

The Danish flag consists of a large white cross on a red field.
This flag has been in continual existence as the national emblem of Denmark since the thirteenth century, and is the oldest unchanged national flag in existence.

Common Salt Overeaten

Sodium chloride, familiar to everyone as common salt, is one of the most essential elements in the body needs. In addition to the sizable amounts normally pres-

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Blake, of Mt. Sterling, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Blake.

Mrs. Florence McPherson, of Globe, Arizona, was called here by the death of her sister, Mrs. John Voss. She will remain for a visit with her sister, Mrs. William Tarbill and other relatives.

Lewis Patterson and Charles Mills were business visitors at Circleville, Tuesday.

Forest Morris and family and Harry Morris moved to their rented farm near Bloomingburg.

Mr. and Mrs. William Corson, Miss Louise Hoskins and Miss Mabel Hoskins, of Columbus, spent the week-end at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hoskins, and attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. John Voss, held at Clarksburg, M. E. church last Saturday.

Paul Oyler, of Grange Hall, was a visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hamilton, Tuesday.

Mrs. Loretta A. Moore, Mrs. Almada Bennett and Miss Anna Mae Russ were Saturday Circleville visitors.

Mrs. George Speakman, who has been in poor health for some time, suffered a severe heart attack Tuesday morning and for a time her family was much alarmed.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. French were Columbus visitors the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Briggs, of Circleville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Speakman, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Errel Speakman and children were dinner guests Sunday of John Sheaffer and family near Grange Hall.

P. T. A. MEETING ENJOYED

A capacity audience enjoyed the P. T. A. meeting Thursday evening in the school auditorium.

The president, Mrs. Almada Bennett presided during the business session. A motion picture was shown.

Miss Sara Oglesbe the purchasing power for a new electric iron for the Domestic Science room; same to be financed by the P. T. A.

A laundry bill of $1 was paid Mrs. Maud Donahoe. Program committee for the next meeting will be the school faculty. Refreshment committee, C. E. Cleary, Ward Dean and Harold Corlew.

Doris Dick, chairman of the program committee, presented the following committee:

Music, school orchestra; piano solo, Mrs. Mabel Hays; tap dancing, Mary Ellen Dawson and Willis Taylor; soft shoe dancing, Sara Ann Vincent and Ellis Arnold; tap dance, Ned and Nedra Ater.

Magician Thomas, of Chillicothe, together with a juggler put on some quite clever tricks which proved very entertaining. The program closed with a number by the orchestra. The refreshment committee, Mrs. Ruth Phillips, Mrs. Lolo Ater and Miss Mary Skinner served sandwiches, pudding pie with whipped cream and coffee to a record crowd for the year.

These are the counter-balancing considerations to Germany's national aims. They speak against war at least until Germany is absolutely confident of winning.

How soon could Germany be confident of winning? This is the all-important factor in the question "will war come?"

authority to make all the concessions necessary to insure peace as long as he wants it. What other German statesmen could have made the non-aggression pact with Poland giving up the corridor for ten years? Brüning, had he done it, would have been crucified. Hitler controlled his storm troops in Danzig. He can control them in the Saar and in Austria if he will.

MORAL FACTOR

This is the moral factor that controls Germany's willingness for war and for the moment speaks against it.

Finally, though Germany aims at a great many goals that could only be achieved by war they could be achieved, of course, only by a victorious war. And in contemplating war Germany, too, must contemplate what might be the result of a lost war.

A lost war, Germany as a whole is convinced, would mean first of all the end of modern Germany as a United State. No pacifist propaganda could be more effective than the maps just published by national socialists pointing out "what the enemies of Germany want."

France, according to this forecast, would take the entire left-bank of the Rhine; Poland would get a great slice of north Germany including most of her Baltic sea coast; Czechoslovakia would get most of Saxony, and the rest of Germany would be divided into independent German states, a tiny Prussia around Berlin, and states of Hanover, Saxony, Westphalia, Württemberg, and Rhineland.

Robber Fled Hard Soap

SEATTLE, Wash.—"Soft soap" sometimes turneth away anger, but hard soap is more effective against bandits, it was disclosed here today. E. C. Kinsel, drug store proprietor, reported to police that when a young man entered his store and brandished a revolver, he bombarded the gunman with bars of soap. The bandit was routed and escaped in a car driven by an accomplice.

Cracy. What the people are mostly interested in," he continued, "is not the cost of the school system but getting value received for every dollar spent. I know of no profession that tries harder to render service than school teachers.

"We can reduce taxes easily," he stated, "by making no improvements such as paved streets, have no modern schools, sewage systems, electric lights and other things now enjoyed by the people of today, but when we have such a community we would soon find that the people would move to the places where they can enjoy these things. Reduce the taxes seventy-five per cent and not have these things and you will also lose seventy-five per cent of the population."

Touching upon the school program he said, "It is difficult to know how far to go in spending money to have a curriculum to develop the qualities in all the children. What would be essentials to teach for one person would be considered a 'fad' to another. The minimum school teachings should develop the children to make them good and useful citizens."

CITES DELINQUENCIES

In closing he said that the people are not so much interested in lower taxes as they are in creating a tax scheme that would have the other fellow pay his share of the taxes. "If the delinquent taxes were paid we would not have the worries we now have and money for all purposes would be available," he declared.

T. D. Krimm, deputy county auditor, gave much information on tax statistics and how much money is paid for school purposes. "With the delinquent taxes increasing from $61,436.16 in 1930 to $202,809.36 in 1933 you can readily see why it is difficult to balance the budgets. If an effort was made to collect these delinquent taxes the tax problem would be solved." Mr. Krimm congratulated the Board of Education on its operation of the city schools with limited funds available.

E. L. Daley, superintendent of schools, was toastmaster and the teachers and guests were welcomed by E. I. Gephart, principal of the high school.

City Represented at Flower Display

The Columbus Spring Flower Show is being held at the Memorial Hall on Saturday and Sunday and promises to be a delightful treat for anyone interested in flowers and flower gardens.

Brehmer Greenhouses have been allotted space at the show and in addition to a display of spring plants will feature Lilacs in full bloom, "Golden Gleam" double Nasturtium, and "Chrysanth" the new variety of Calendula that was originated in California last season and released by the seedsmen this year.

The show opens at noon on Saturday and closes at ten o'clock Sunday night.

Carrene
NO GASES
NO ODORS
NO PRESSURE

Here is an announcement that should amaze and thrill you. With every Grunow refrigerator you get probably the most important thing of all, a safe refrigerator, at no extra cost.

Carrene, exclusive with Grunow, is a refrigerant that has almost the simple properties of water itself. You can see it, smell it, and hold it in your hand, without danger or inconvenience. There is no noxious odor, it operates without pressure, it is a liquid and not a gas, under all ordinary conditions and temperatures. Yet it is one of the most efficient refrigerants ever developed.

Remember the importance of finding out "what's inside" an electric refrigerator. The Grunow dealer will be glad to show you "what's inside" a Grunow—why it is more efficient in operation, why it is so smooth-running, why there is little likelihood of service being necessary, and why it will cut down the light bill.

Grunow is made in several sizes to suit every type of family and, what is more important, to suit every type of pocket-book. And remember that every Grunow, large or small, uses safe Carrene refrigerant.
